COLUMBUS FIRE DEAD NOW 10

Babies Thrown From Burning Six-Story Apartment and Women Jump to Death

By International News Service.

Columbus, O., May 6.—Ten are known to be dead and ten are in Columbus hospitals seriousy burned as the result of a fire which destroyed a six-story apartment house at No. 75½ West Broad street, in the heart of the city, at an early hour today.

The occupants were trapped by the flames which shot up the elevator shaft in the second story, turning the building into a veritable furnace.

The fire started from a burning gas jet in a bath room on the second floor.

When firemen arrived it was practically impossible for them to reach the flames.

Cries of the occupants horrified the crowds of spectators. Women tossed their babies and larger children into waiting nets. Clarence Gordon, a spectator, attempted o make a net out of a blanket. A woman on the fourth floor saw him and threw her infant to him.

Gordon dropped the blanket and caught the child in his arms.

Men on the sidewalk warned Mrs. Charles Speakman not to jump, but she paid no heed. She hurled herself to the street below and dashed out her brains. Her husband jumped to the roof of a two-story building adjoining and sustained a broken arm and leg. Police rescued him.

Two hours after the fire was out police found a four-weeks-old child unidentified and badly burned about the face.

Police and firemen are still searching the ruins for more bodies. They believe the death list may total fifteen. There were a number of heroic rescues made. Those who suffered injury were overcome by smoke and could not be reached by firemen in the hallways.

Wake up, New England, back the country and FINISH THE JOB!

A terrific aerial battle was fought over Boston today.

American and allied aviators defeated a squadron of enemy fliers.

It was an awe-inspiring and thrilling spectacle. Thousands of civilians watched the aerial evolution. The spectators gazed with staring eyes as the airplanes skimmed, raced, dipped and dived in battle array.

The charging of the enemy squadron, the rush to the defence by the allies, the shooting of the aerial guns, the puffs of smoke on high, the defeat of the enemy and the triumph of the American and allied "aces" gave a display such as Bostonians had never seen.

For Uncle Sam's "Flying Circus" was in action and it was all to boost the Victory Loan.

SECRETARY GLASS ARRIVES.

The aerial battle, with other features of the Loan drive, made today one of the greatest in all the Liberty Loan history of Boston and New England.

Another feature of the day was the arrival of Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass. He gave out a forceful statement of confidence that New England would not fail in this emergency of national finance.

Rear-Admiral William S. Sims, who arrived in the city night before, was obliged to cancel speaking engagements for the day on account of throat trouble. He was to have been a speaker with Secretary Glass at Symphony Hall this evening.

A parade, innumerable rallies and other features were on the day's pro-

To Desert Our Boys Now Is Dishonor, Says Glass in Call to Patriots to Rally for the Loan

CARTER GLASS

By CARTER GLASS, Secretary of the Treasury.

It is inconceivable to me that New England will, in any measure, default in this financial emergency of the nation. Indeed, it is difficult to believe that any part of the country will fail to respond to such an imperative call.

True, it requires a higher type of patriotism to do one's duty in time of peace than in the delirium of war; but when the issue is the plain obligation of a great and powerful and rich nation to pay its honorable commitments, it is not a matter of excitement, but a question which involves the very character of the country. There should be no nagging anywhere by anybody.

We are having great parades throughout the country in honor of our returning soldiers. Do we, in very truth, rejoice that nearly two millions are coming back to bless our homes again? If we do, there could be no better way of attesting the fact than by promptly repaying the debt incurred in sending them "over there" to terminate the war.

Moreover, there are a million and one-half of these boys still in France and Germany. They must be maintained in comfort and brought back in safety.

It would be quite as reasonable to expect these boys, now that the war is ended, to dishonor the nation by deserting the flag, as to expect the nation to dishonor itself by deserting these boys. Either of these things would shake the moral sense of the world.

New England, with its fine sense of devotion to the best ideals of the country, should be content with nothing less than the foremost place of honor in asserting the nation's gratitude to God.

VOLUNTEERS ARE WANTED FOR SIBERIA

By International News Service.

Washington, May 6.—That the American troops to be withdrawn from Siberia will be replaced by fresh detachments was revealed in a War Department order calling for the enlistment of 8,000 men for Siberian service sent to all recruiting offices and to commanding officers of posts and camps.

Seven thousand of the men are to be of infantry and the others to be divided among medical, quartermaster and ordnance troops. Only men with previous military service will be accepted, it was stated. The mobilization point will be the Presidio, San Francisco, and from there the men will be transported to Vladivostok in detachments of 500. At the present time there are 8,582 enlisted men and 311 officers in Siberia.

Opera Star's Kisses at Million Each for the Loan

New York, May 6.—Someone down at Washington blundered in not getting the luscious lips of Mme. Eleanor De Cisneros, opera star, into the Victory Loan campaign earlier.

They call Brooklyn the "City of Churches," but Brooklynites fell over thmselves taking kisses from Mme. Cisneros at a million-dollar Victory note apiece. The opera star sold twenty-three at that price, and her sales put Brooklyn over the top.

Miss Julia Arthur volunteered to sell Victory notes on the smack-'em plan, and "kiss away the Victory Loan" became the slogan today.

3 HURT AS FIRE CHIEF'S AUTO HITS POLE

Three people, including District Fire Chief Edward G. Shallow, were injured today, when his automobile, driven by Chauffeur Samuel Pope, crashed into a trolley pole at Hanover and Parmenter streets, while on the way to a fire. The fire auto swerved to avoid hitting an auto truck.

Angelo Demantas, twenty-nine, of No. 288 Hanover street, who was standing on the sidewalk, was knocked down by the machine and received contusions on the body, right arm and leg. He was taken to Haymarket Relief Station.

District Chief Shallow was bruised and shaken up. He was taken to his home, No. 711 East Fifth street, South Boston.

The auto truck, driven by Athas Arastos of No. 27 School street, Cambridge, in trying to avoid collision with the chief's car bumped into a wagon driven by Thomas Higgins of No. 25 G street, South Boston, who was badly bruised.

About $75 damake was caused by the fire in the Charles E. Fogg mattress factory on the fourth floor of No. 44 Eastern avenue.

The radiator of the chief's car was smashed, the front axle bent and a tire blown.

BRUTALITY AT RIOT DENIED BY POLICE

The Roxbury riots of May Day were due wholly to the Socialists who paraded the streets with red flags, a dozen police testified in Roxbury court today, and far from seeking to avoid trouble, the paraders invited it.

The policemen, testifying against nineteen alleged rioters, denied all the allegations made today by Attorney Thomas G. Connolly in a letter to Police Commissioner Curtis that the police and anti-Socialists started the trouble.

Patrolman William T. Cummings testified that men in the crowd of Socialists "tore their shirts open and exposed their breasts, daring the police to fire. There were cat-calls and abuse, and it was shouted that the department feared to use force to suppress 'free assemblage.' Finally the missiles were thrown and shots were fired. It was not until then that the officers drew their revolvers and fired in the air."

The same patrolman testified that he had told Martha Foley, the Suffragist, arrested with the paraders, that if she did not get out of the crowd she would get into trouble. She responded, according to Cummings, that she did not care, and would stay with her comrades, and did remain to add to the ale of the riot which followed.

Patrolman John J. Cashman admitted that he saw a sailor and an

BAKER REVIEWS PARADE OF 77TH IN NEW YORK

New York, May 6.—Two million people acclaimed the men of the 77th Division from New York, the first draft division to enter the trenches in France, as they marched up Fifth avenue from Washington square to Tenth street today. The day was generally a holiday. Major-General Robert Alexander led the parade, and Secretary of War Baker reviewed it.

Nearly 5,000 officers and men of the division arrived home today aboard the President Grant, a few hours too late to participate in the parade.

RADICALS BEATEN BY VIGILANTES

Declaring that the band of "Vigilantes" who today kidnaped and drove from Lawrence two prominent strike leaders were "men who above all ought to stand for law and order in this community," a committee of strikers came to Boston this afternoon to lay the case before Governor Coolidge, and demand justice.

They make no secret of their belief that i fthe matter is left to the Lawrence authorities the twenty masked men who dragged Anthony Capraro and Nathan Kleinman from their beds in the Hotel Needham and assaulted them will never be identified and punished.

The action of the strikers follows an investigation by Attorney George E. Roewer, Jr., of Boston. He has obtained a good description of the score of men who forced their way into the hotel of the strike leaders at the point of guns, and "persuaded" them, by the use of blackjacks, to get into automobiles and be driven across the city line.

LAWRENCE POLICE SILENT.

The matter was not reported to the Lawrence police until several hours after it occurred. The strikers say the twenty men were self-appointed Vigilantes. The police say nothing, but have started an investigation.

Capraro was dragged by the heels from his room, clad only in his pajamas, and in spite of the protests of the hotel clerk, was thrown into an automobile and literally kicked across the line into West Andover, according to his own story. He was discovered unconscious hours later by a West Andover farmer, and is now under a physician's care.

Kleinman, fully dressed, was first beaten and then hustled into another automobile. He appeared in Lowell hours later, and said he had been thrown out on the Lowell-Lawrence road, after being beaten into semi-consciousness.

Both men, according to their stories, were warned to "Get to hell out of Lawrence, and never come back, if they valued life."

The story of the hotel clerk, James Silk, is that two men appeared at the front door of the hotel just before daybreak and demanded admittance. Once in, they covered him with revolvers and ordered him to open the back door.

When the rear door was opened, eighteen men, with their faces concealed, filed into the office and upstairs to the rooms of the strike leaders. Other guests who were alarmed by the

PRESIDENT IS UNYIELDING IN HIS POSITION REGARDING FIUME

Paris, May 6.—A secret plenary session of the peace conference was held at the Quai D'Orsay today for a final reading of the treaty. All of the Allied nations were represented except Italy, but the Italian delegates are on their way back to Paris from Rome. They will arrive tomorrow morning.

Because of the great length of the pact, it was not read in its entirety, but Andre Tardieu of the French delegation read a summary that had already been passed on by the Big Three—President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau.

The entire assemblage was pledged to secrecy, pending the delivery of the document to the Germans at Versailles tomorrow.

The Jugo-Slav delegates have now presented their credentials which, after formal acceptance by the allies, were tendered to the Germans.

This virtually means that the new State of Jugo-Slavia has been recognized by the powers.

TO RECOGNIZE FINLAND.

It is understood that there was no discussion of the rival territorial claims of Italy and Jugo-Slavia as to territory on the Adriatic, notably Fiume.

It is now reported that the allies are prepared to recognize the Finnish republic under certain conditions. While these conditions are withheld, it is understood that it has been suggested that the Finnish army occupy Petrograd in order to stabilize the situation on the southern frontier of Finland.

(The occupation of Petrograd by Finnish and anti-Bolshevik Russian troops has already been unofficially reported.)

Recognition of Finland as an independent state may assist materially in the solution of the Russian problem.

At the same time it is pointed out that the Hungarian situation may be cleared up as a result of the reported downfall of the dictatorship of Bela Kun at Budapest. Assistance in this direction will come from the fact that the Austrian delegates, who were formally invited to Paris, are expected to arrive on May 12.

WILSON STANDS FIRM.

American delegates resent the intimation that the Italian envoys were invited to return to Paris through the Big Three. In American sources it is said that this intimation, which comes from both British and French official circles, is untrue.

It is insisted among the Americans that President Wilson has not changed his position and that notification to this effect has been served upon Premier Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau.

Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau are understood to have sent a communication to Rome, making known the attitude of President Wilson. The message was couched in the form of an invitation and the Italians immediately replied in the affirmative. They were anxious to return, but could not do so except in a way that would "save their faces."

Then a second communication went to Rome. This was followed by a statement that the Italians hoped to find their way to a compromise that would satisfy President Wilson.

The credentials of the Italian delegates were rushed to Paris by special courier, reaching here today. They were immediately forwarded to Versailles and formally presented to the German envoys.

Avenue of States Is Planned at Washington

Washington, May 6.—Historic Pennsylvania avenue may crystallize into a thoroughfare known as "The Avenue of the States," with forty-eight splendid buildings framing it, each typical of one great Commonwealth.

When Capraro and Kleinman had been accounted for, the Vigilantes returned and asked for A. J. Muste of Boston, another strike leader, according to Silk. He says he will be able to identify some of the men involved.

"VICTIMS OF SYSTEM."

Capraro, who has been the dominant factor in the strike in recent weeks, said today that he thought he knew who his assailants were, but that he would not prosecute them and would leave Lawrence.

"They are not to blame. They have been worked up by the agitation of advocates of the 'Prussian' method," said the strike chief. "They as well as we are victims of the system."

"They sent the machine along about three and one-half miles to what I since learned was the Lawrence-West Andover line," said Capraro in telling of his experience.

"There they threw me out, again assailed me with blackjacks and kicked me over the line, saying, 'Get to hell out of this town and never come back.' I fell as I stepped on West Andover soil and remember nothing more until I was partially revived hours later by a friendly farmer."

The New York writer and agitator was taken to the home of W. L. Livingstone in West Andover and Dr. P. J. Look was summoned. A number of stitches were taken in Capraro's head and he is being treated for other injuries, possibly internal.

His statement that he will not return to Lawrence is said to have been made after he discovered that there was actually a conspiracy to injure him if he remained. Capraro was active in bringing Carlo Tresca of 1912 fame here a few days ago.

GERMANY MUST PAY DAMAGE TO VESSELS

By International News Service.

Washington, May 6.—Germany's debt to the United States of $100,000,000 will not be entirely cancelled by the turning over of the forty-two vessels seized upon the occasion of America's entry into the war.

BRUTALITY AT RIOT CHARGED TO POLICE

Thomas G. Connolly, Attorney for Defendants, Sends Letter to Commissioner Curtis

anti-Socialist in civilian clothes armed with clubs in the vicinity of the riot, but did not see them taking part in the disorder.

Patrolman Fred Higgins said that the women were worse than the men, and took advantage of their sex to assault policemen. The prosecution took up most of the time today in Judge Hayden's court. The real defence will begin tomorrow.

Attorney Thomas G. Conolly has sent the following letter to Police Commissioner Curtis:

"On May 1, in Roxbury, approximately 1,050 Socialist men, women and children, while walking from one hall to another hall nearby which they were that day taking formal possession of, were set upon by several hundred boys and men, entirely without legal provocation, with the result that a little reign of terror followed and a hundred or more arrests were made—not of the boys and men (who styled themselves 'Americans') who did this assaulting, but of the Socialists who were assaulted. To be exact, three or four of the 'Americans' in the excitement were gathered in, but the police, as I understand, do not intend to press any charge against these three or four. In fact, one such at least has already been acquitted on police recommendation.

"As attorney for the greater part of the arrested men, women and girls (and one boy), I hereby make the following charges against the policemen generally on duty at that time and place:

"Clubbing unresisting and helpless prisoners in the safe recesses of the covered patrol vans.

"Doing nothing to protect the Socialists from the taunts, insults and abuse of the said boys and men.

"Doing practically nothing to protect the fleeing Socialists, or astonished pedestrians who didn't look sufficiently 'American,' on the side streets quite removed from the scene of the so-called parade.

"Deliberately refusing to do anything while these boys and men punched the Socialists or foreign-looking persons full in the face and beating and striking them with stones, sticks and clubs;

"Supplying these boys and men with their own clubs or 'billies' to be used on the Socialists;

"Intimidating the Socialists by firing point-blank at them their revolvers, which, fortunately, carried only blank cartridges.

"Making charges against the Socialists, for instance, as to carrying concealed weapons, that were entirely baseless.

"Advising (in one instance) the rioting American youths and men 'that had any American blood in them' to 'take care' of the Socialists who had not been arrested and had fled for refuge (sometimes in vain) into nearby stores and houses.

"Putting Socialists (in one instance) out of their own new hall for meetings, then admitting crowds (I will not say 'mobs') of American youths, advising these American youths to 'clean the place out,' which the American youths did very thoroughly. No arrest, to my knowledge, has yet been made for this.

"Other acts too numerous to mention here.

"But all tending to prove collusion by the policemen on duty at the said time and place, or many of them at least, for the purpose of intimidating and assaulting peaceable Socialists, and discrediting the whole Socialist movement.

DISREGARD OF LAW.

"The above charges, if true, certainly tend to show a serious disregard of that law and order which your department exists to preserve; and I am sure that you, Mr. Commissioner, must be as desirous as I, or the defendants whom I represent, to have the real facts proven.

"The above charges are something quite apart from the cases now being tried in the Roxbury Court. Regardless of how those cases turn out, my charges, if true, reveal a condition where the safety of any person, or of any group of persons, cannot be secured if the police generally, or any considerable number of them, don't happen to approve him or them. Nor, may I suggest, can these charges be properly tried out on paper, no matter how cleverly the rejoinders may be worded.

"As I expect to be tied up with the cases in the Roxbury Court for the next two weeks, may I further suggest that the hearing shall be set for a date about three weeks away. Also that it should be open to the public, in order that the public may learn the whole truth.

"Yours very truly,
(Signed) "THOMAS G. CONNOLLY."

HUNT AUTOISTS IN MYSTERY OF SLAIN WOMAN IN VERMONT

CLEW TO NEST OF 'SLAVERS'

Barre Police Believe Mrs. Broadwell Had Threatened to Expose Leaders of Gang

Barre, Vt., May 6.—Four men, supposedly foreigners, were seen in an automobile near a South End house of "shady reputation" with a woman answering the description of Mrs. Henry Broadwell, whose murdered body, almost naked, was found in the streets here early Sunday morning, according to a clew furnished to the police.

That the murder may have been committed at this house, whose reputation is described as "shady" by the woman's husband, and the body brought in the automobile to where it was found is a theory on which the police are working.

They have interviewed the proprietor of a garage, who admitted that four men whose description tallies with that given to the police, called early Sunday morning in an automobile to get gasoline for their car. He denies, however, having seen any woman with these men.

SAY WIFE WAS WARNED.

Friends of the Broadwell family declare that Mr. Broadwell had warned his wife not to visit this house because of its reputation. A woman has been found, however, who claims to have seen Mrs. Broadwell there on the night prior to the murder.

That Mrs. Broadwell may have been murdered by "white slavers" who failed to entice her into a life of shame and whose operations she threatened to reveal to the police is one of the startling developments in this baffling murder mystery.

That Mrs. Broadwell had stoutly refused to acquiesce to the demands of her murderers is evidenced through the fact that her clothing had been torn into strips, and a part of her shirt waist tied to a handkerchief was tightly twisted about her throat when her body was found.

A young woman, whose identity the local authorities refuse to reveal, declared she saw Mrs. Broadwell at the white slavers' den. The young woman escaped, she declared, only through a ruse.

ONE WOMAN ESCAPED.

This woman identified the body of Mrs. Broadwell at a local undertaking establishment. She declared she did not know Mrs. Broadwell, but when, through the strenuous objections made by Mrs. Broadwell to the improper advances made by the habitues of the den, she discovered that trouble was brewing she decided to get away, if possible. She was able to get out only through quickwittedness and was compelled to leave her outer wraps in the house.

Mrs. Broadwell, it is believed, threatened to make trouble for the gang, and, resorting to methods which have long been known to fighters of the traffic, the dead woman's captors strangled her in order to silence her, and later left the body where it was found early the next morning.

City, county and State authorities are sparing no effort to run down the murderers. Every avenue of escape is being closely guarded and suspicious characters are being trailed.

QUESTION ALL SUSPECTS.

Police headquarters throughout the day was the scene of continuous grilling of suspected persons. One man, with a deep cut over his eye, was brought to police headquarters to explain the presence of blood in his room in a lodging house. Finding of this evidence of a struggle led the police to believe that this house may have been the scene of the crime.

The man, whose name was not disclosed by the police, established an alibi, however, when he produced an acquaintance who corroborated the story of the former that the cut was caused by being struck with a whiskey bottle during a drunken quarrel.

Other persons under suspicion have been questioned, but the authorities do not make any claim to having arrested the perpetrator of the Broadwell murder.

Harry E. Broadwell, husband of the dead woman, declared he went by instinct to the house where Mrs. Broadwell had been enticed by the white slave "cadets."

HUSBAND WAS AT DANCE.

When he returned home at 2:30 a. m., after having spent several hours previous at a dance, he found his wife was absent. Then, he declared, he intuitively went to the South End house, but was reluctant to go inside because of his fear that he might possibly be mistaken.

In a severe questioning by the police, Broadwell told all he knew. He is unrelenting in his efforts to bring the murderer of his wife to justice. He declares he will continue his search for the slayers until they have been found.

VILNA STILL HELD BY BY BOLSHEVIK ARMY

Washington, May 6.—Polish troops attempted to capture Vilna but failed, and that town is still held by the Bolsheviki, according to a cablegram received this afternoon by the Lithuanian National council from the Lithuanian delegation in Paris. MAYOR DEFENDS MOTHER; MUST EDUCATE BOY

Resents Ruling of Overseers of Poor That Would Send Lad to Work

Because the Board of Overseers of the Poor ruled that a fourteen-year-old boy must leave school and go to work when his mother applied for an increased allotment from the city, Mayor Peters today scored the ruling of the board in a letter to its secretary, W. H. Hardy.

The family in question lives in South Boston. The mother, who has two boys, the youngest only fourteen, has recently been receiving $8 a week. She applied for an increase to $12, and was granted a temporary increase for four weeks, with instructions that both boys should seek work. According to the secretary, the mother refused to allow them to leave school.

Her attitude is supported by the Mayor, who urges that the boys' education is of primary importance.

His letter reads, in part:

SCHOOLS FOR ALL BOYS.

"It is claimed by many, whose experience on the subject enables them to speak with the highest authority, that the great majority of instances of poverty are directly traceable to a lack of education.

"I believe that at the age of fourteen the average boy or girl is only about to enter high school, or the trade school, which may be chosen as an alternative to the high school, so that the boy or girl who is forced to seek work at this age is arbitrarily denied the benefits of the higher education which the city of Boston offers through its school system to the children of the city.

"The educational opportunities of the city of Boston should be for rich and poor alike. All children should have the same opportunity, and I do not believe that the agency of the city of Boston, whose function it is to relieve those in needy circumstances, can afford to adopt a rule which operates to deny to poor children the advantages which they need and will need far more in after life than the children of those who are in comfortable circumstances.

A WORTHY AMBITION.

"The facts as presented in your letter bring to light a case of a mother who is ambitious that her boys should receive an education which will make them useful and worthy citizens. I need not point out that her ambition is the ambition of the city of Boston itself and it is the very foundation of our educational system.

"I thoroughly appreciate that the funds at the command of the Board of Overseers of the Poor are limited, but at the same time I believe that economies should be practiced in directions and in ways other than that now under consideration."

BABY SIMS TO FOLLOW 'DADDY' IN THE NAVY

Admiral's Wife Discusses Home Life; Urges Loyal Duty to Victory Loan

"Just to do our duty—and our privilege—in these last days of the loan. Then to build the homes once more and settle down with our children and our husbands, back from the war—that is the fitting program for every true American woman just now."

Mrs. William S. Sims, good democrat, gracious lady, devoted wife and adoring mother, so defined today the foremost business of every woman this last week of the Victory Liberty Loan.

It was in the Sims drawing room at the Copley-Plaza, with the silver and the linen of the breakfast table gleaming in the morning sunshine, and the admiral who has made history these last three years smiling on his little wife as she talked, that Mrs. Sims spoke of the thing that lies nearest to her heart for just this week. And the thing? The Liberty Loan—it were superfluous to say.

But the Liberty Loan was not the only subject. Nobody talks to one of the most charming of navy women very long before the Sims babies come into the conversation. And when they are mentioned the great admiral forgets about the navy, for a little, and helps mamma remember—about those babies.

PROUD OF DADDY SIMS.

"You've had an anxious two years," say you, first of all, to the admiral's wife, "an anxious two years, being father and mother to five youngsters." And the talk begins.

"Don't think that an admiral's wife really knows the hardship of war, or the hardships that other navy women have experienced through our days of anxiety, so happily finished," Mrs. Sims explains, with sincerity. "My dear, every day I could take up the paper and read what was happening to the admiral in London. Frequently I heard from him direct. My lot has been fortunate. It was other navy women who knew the strain far more than I."

Which was innate philosophy of a modest little woman. Which, also, introduced the Sims babies.

"You know," and a mother spoke with shining eyes, "you know one of the greatest pleasures of the Sims family has been, these war days, to take up the paper and read of father. It gave rather a distorted view of contemporaneous history to our youngest, the baby, aged three, I fear. For, just a little while before father came home, he demanded: 'Get the paper and read me of my father. What does the paper say about him today?'"

Mrs. Sims smiled. "The baby thinks," she confessed, amused, "that our American institution of the great daily newspaper exists merely to tell of father and to tell of nobody else. He has never yet realized that, perhaps, other gentlemen may also figure."

Which led to the question: "How do you bring up those five Sims babies?"

IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS.

And their mother was puzzled. "I have no rule," said she; "I just devote all my time to them. I read with them; I take them places; but as to rules—it's pretty hard to say."

And the question—"What are they going to be when they grow up?" was the logical next.

"The baby, three years old, has settled his career already," explained the baby's mother. So we don't have to worry about him. For he announced, so soon as he saw his father's gold stars:

"When I get to be a big man, mother, I shall be an admiral. And I suppose I shall be in the navy for that."

"So you see," said Mrs. Sims, "one career in the Sims family is settled. As a matter of fact, I shouldn't be surprised if both our sons would want to go into the navy; and as for our daughters—they are to go to college and to learn some profession which they will pursue after college. I am an earnest advocate of daughters being educated to do their duty in the world, just as much as sons."

Now while a shy little mother talked, her husband, just across the room, helped on when the lag came. And Admiral Sims, late of great deeds across the seas, when history was being made, and a world's fate hung in the balance, as sailors swept wintry seas and women waited at home, is not too great a man to be a father who does not forget the small interests of home.

"Please tell our visitor about the Saturday Club," he requested his wife. "I think that's worth talking about."

"Oh," begged his wife, "I was going to write about that."

"Just a little," he urged; "I wish you would."

THE SATURDAY CLUB.

And the lady did. "The Saturday Club," explained one of the mothers who helped found it, "is a club of mothers and children at Newport, where, each Saturday morning, we meet and study some subject connected with history of the town and the nation, and go to see the places concerned in the subject we are considering. This sometimes includes a little trip into the harbor.

"We find it an excellent way of stimulating the imagination of youngsters at an impressionable age; of teaching them tradition; of opening up to them their precious heritage of American citizenship. At the same time, it helps mamma to play with her boy and girl in comradeship that is rare. That, in brief, is the Saturday Club. And Admiral Sims smiled his approval. Which came to the last question of all—"what is the chief duty of a navy man's wife."

Dentistry May Give Clew to Slain Girl

New York, May 6.—Identification of the young woman whose body was found in a swamp near New Canaan, Ct., Friday, is expected to be made by means of her teeth.

A fac-simile chart made by Dr. B. H. Keeler of New Canaan will be sent to every dentist in New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

From a dental point of view the young woman's teeth were of a striking character. A description of them follows:

The upper first and second bicuspids are missing. The right upper, gold filling is lateral, first and second bicuspid dummy and bridge; left lower, first and third molars missing; right lower, first molar missing; cavity in second molar and third molar also missing.

POND TO BE DRAGGED.

Any dentist who worked on the young woman's teeth will, it is said, recognize this description immediately, and he is asked to communicate at once with Acting Captain Ayers, in command of the Bureau of Missing Persons at Police Headquarters, New York, or with the editor of the American.

It was decided to drag Comstock Pond, near the spot where the body was found, in an effort to find missing undergarments of the young woman.

DESCRIPTION OF VICTIM.

This description of the slain woman was made public yesterday:

Height, 5 feet 5½ inches; weight, 130 pounds; hair, chestnut; face, oval; nose, small and straight; forehead, low and rounded; chin, well formed and rounded; mouth, small; hands, slender.

There were two bunions on her feet at the joint of the left and right big toe and these were encased in leather protectors.

Medical Examiner J. M. Brooks and Dr. Bruce Weaver of New Canaan have performed an autopsy. Following the autopsy an analysis of the stomach and brain was made and a clew of importance was discovered, it was said.

CLOTHING MARK IS CLEW.

The single definite marking found on the under skirt belt of the girl's suit—the figures T911-4065-17-11—is the mark used by a cleaner. All cleaners and dyers of the city who use a marking similar to the above, or who have used such a marking within the last year or so, are asked to examine their records for the number. The stencilling of the figures is not wholly distinct, and the number has been variously interpreted as one of the following three:

T911—4065—17—11.
T911—4085—17—11.
T911—40B8—17—11.

Any cleaning firm which has any of these three numbers in its records in connection with any work done on a woman's suit is asked to give the information immediately to the police or to the editor of the American.

'SHIMMY DANCE' DENOUNCED AT SALEM

Witnesses in Court Hearing Declare It Is Objectionable on Moral Grounds

Is the "shimmy dance" a breach of the peace? This vexing question was answered in the Salem court today by Frederick W. Lynch of No. 23 Cambridge street, Cambridge, testifying against a dance hall for the Watch and Ward Society.

Mr. Lynch said: "The 'shimmy' is not a dance, really. It is a movement more of the body than of the feet, a movement of the muscles, particularly the trunk muscles. Some of its manifestations are fittingly called the 'shivers.'

"The partners stand too close together, and the wild orgy of movement works gradually up to a climax, and cannot properly be called a dance."

Mr. Lynch was one of a half dozen witnesses against the "Big Six," a social organization charged with allowing immoral dances at its entertainments in the Now and Then Hall at Salem. The question will ultimately be settled by a demonstration before Judge Sears, for which a space has been cleared in front of the bench.

John M. Casey of Boston was another star witness for the prosecution. He testified that he had been a censor in Boston for years and that Mayor Peters had banned the shimmy dance. He characterized the shimmy as a "shaking of the shoulders as if in agony."

He testified that at the Now and Then Club the shimmy was occasionally disguised as the "Jazz."

Other witnesses testified that girls under sixteen were admitted to the hall, that children were allowed to look on, and that there was spooning in the balconies.

The defendants are Robert Clark, Frank Hever, James Callahan and Joseph Chourbnard of the "Bix Six" and Robert Parish, colored, charged with having introduced the dance into Salem in his exhibition performances at the Now and Then.

U. S. SEAPLANES HELD UP BY HIGH WIND

Naval Aviators May Be Delayed Several Days in Trans-Atlantic Flight

By International News Service.

Rockaway Beach, N. Y., May 6.—The United States naval seaplanes did not start for Halifax today on the first leg of the trans-Atlantic flight.

A thirty-mile-an-hour north-northwest wind, into which the aviators must have headed had they attempted the flight today, caused Commander John H. Towers to announce a postponement at least until tomorrow.

Towers had counted on making Halifax in eight hours, but he estimated that it would require at least fifteen hours in the face of the gale.

The weather forecast calls for rain tomorrow and strong winds Thursday, making it appear unlikely that the planes will start before Friday.

Repairs on the NC-1, which was partly destroyed by fire yesterday were completed today and the plane made a successful trial flight carrying 24,000 pounds.

MOTHERS DEFY SCHOOL BOARD RULING

Orient Heights Protests Being "Dumping Ground for Boston"

Failure to obtain a new school building in the Orient Heights section of East Boston promises to precipitate a serious school strike. Only by withholding their children from obeying the proposed order of the School Committee that pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Blackington School attend the Paul Jones School, a half-mile distant, will the School Committee be compelled to rescind its recommendation, in the opinion of many parents. Mrs. J. J. Corrigan heads the parents in their protest.

After eleven years of promises and agitation Orient Heights remains without needed school accommodations. Mass meetings have been held and parents' meetings have protested to the School Committee, in vain. Although $104,000 was appropriated in 1917 for the construction of the promised building the School Committee has not expended the money, partly on the plea of the war and partly for the reason that, with the increased cost of materials and labor, the appropriation is no longer sufficient to build the structure provided for in the specifications.

SAY CONDITIONS INFERIOR.

As a result of the congestion at the Blackington School, and the erection of five portable buildings in the school yard, conditions affecting the health and development of the children of the district are declared by parents to be inferior to those offered by other school districts in East Boston. Orient Heights residents are thoroughly aroused over the situation and threaten drastic action.

Following a hearing before the School Committee last evening at which a delegation of prominent East Boston residents bared their opinions as to the lack of consideration alleged to have been paid to the complaints of Orient Heights citizens, Mrs. John J. Corrigan of No. 57 Saint Andrews Road, president of the Blackington School Mothers' Club and wife of Treasurer Corrigan of the Sumner Savings Bank, today voiced the feeling among the parents of the district in an interview in which she said:

"The patience of many mothers of our organization is nearly exhausted. Refusal to conform to the wishes of the School Committee is openly talked.

"We do not want to send our children across the dike to the Paul Jones School on Byron street. We want a suitable building here on the island where we live. We are entitled to it.

"Our Parents' Association is not opposed to the 'Junior high school' idea. But we want it in an accessible place.

FEAR LOSS OF BUILDING.

"The feeling prevails that for us to acquiesce to the wishes of the School Committee would further postpone the erection of the building which we have been promised. We had rather lose the questionable advantages of a 'Junior high school' than lose our new building.

"Many of the mothers declare that they will not send their children to another district to attend school. Why should our children be utilized to fill up empty schoolrooms in an adjacent district? It is a positive hardship for many parents to send certain of their children to high school without the added expense of sending the seventh and eighth graders to 'junior high' in another district.

"At present the Blackington school is overcrowded and unsanitary. We have an incessant procession of new teachers and masters there. I do not blame them for not wanting to remain under present conditions.

"Our school has been called 'the dumping ground' for the Boston School district. One teacher styled it 'the jumping off place.'

"We are thoroughly aroused and ask only a square deal. If what we have a right to is not forthcoming within a reasonable time the temper of the mothers is overwhelmingly for a school strike to enforce our just demands."

OFFICERS OF Y. D. PRAISED BY ROLLINS

Chaplain Lauds Work of Cole, Logan and Edwards—Says Men Loved Them

When Chaplain Lyman Rollins of the 101st Infantry was asked to explain what he meant in his address before the Episcopalian Club in saying officers were brutal to men, he replied:

"Time will explain any term that I have used. I've seen much which may never get into print. There are, however, no words strong enough to set forth the valuable services of such officers as Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, Colonel E. L. Logan, General Edwards and others. Such officers stand out in contrast.

"These men were kind and considerate to their men. The men loved them. These officers had a heart. The men would do anything for them. They would follow them wherever they went. But officers who went among their men as if their men were cattle and treated them as such cannot be deserving of any other rebuke except a severe one.

"I think we will hear more about this as the men are discharged from service and feel their freedom in speech.

NOT UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

"I do believe in universal military training, but this is not the same as believing in universal military service. What I saw has convinced me that military training of some sort will redound to the benefit of many young men provided it is properly carried on.

"It would do every young man good during stated periods in the year to spend several weeks or more, if time can be found, in intensive military training.

"Physical development in many a young man can be promoted in this manner. We do not want puny youths, but strong, well developed young men, and military training will help to bring this about."

When asked about religion in the army after the armistice was signed, he answered:

"Why, there was a great slump in the religion of the army as soon as the armistice was signed. You couldn't help but notice it all over. During the war there was a deepening of the spiritual life among the men, but after the armistice came, men threw overboard much of their spiritual power and influence.

JOY AT WAR'S END.

"This may have been done because the men were overjoyed that fighting came to an end. It was hard to get men into tune with religion when war ceased. That's what I mean. This is not judgment upon the men but it makes evident that religion and religious methods must undergo a great change, if they are to appeal to these same young men now.

"In the midst of the horrors of battle and facing death, men had a deepening sense of the value of religion. They have it now during peace, but it requires different methods of making it plain and appealing.

"The churches have a hard problem before them. Methods and movements must undergo radical changes. You can't fool the soldier or the sailor. He has been used to camouflaged methods and will not stand it anywhere else.

"All the soldiers want is sincerity eal devotion. If he sees these he not turn aside."

CAMBRIDGE SAILOR IS HELD FOR THEFT

Herbert Hotin, eighteen, a sailor, of Morse street, Cambridge, appeared in the Waltham court today and was held in $2,000 bonds for the Grand Jury, charged with breaking and entering, and larceny. The police say he confessed breaking into the home of Minnie Boudiet, on Pleasant street, Watertown, and stealing jewelry valued at $70 and $6 in money. The break occurred April 25. Hotin was arrested in Mount Auburn in uniform.

WAR DEPARTMENT AFTER BOGUS WAR MEDAL MEN

Washington, May 6.—A round-up of officers and men who wear military honors, such as war crosses, Legion of Honor badges, etc., to which they are not entitled, is being made by agents of the military intelligence bureau. Officials said today that there were plenty of these decorations for sale, having been brought from abroad by the dozens, while some might be had in pawnshops and others are said to be the output of a few concerns in the United States.

SERVICE is impressive when the Organization behind that service is impressive.

In equipment, in personnel of employees, in general facilities, this Company stands unequalled in the United States. By giving us your order for coal, you will understand that Metropolitan Service is a "real" service.

Metropolitan Service Is a Real Service

A Service Requiring Fifteen Yards and Wharves and Forty-two Offices in Greater Boston

The service that the Metropolitan Coal Company renders its customers is nothing so intangible as "good intentions"; it has a real, concrete form in the shape of pockets, yards, wharves and branch offices in all parts of Greater Boston, so that our desire to serve you has a real meaning.

The public little realizes the efficiency and perfection of an organization on which so many people depend for their coal. Coal shortages during recent years have brought home to the public just how indispensable this commodity is.

To co-ordinate the various activities of an organization so that shipments, distribution and deliveries shall not be interrupted is real public service. It is the record of the Metropolitan Coal Company.

To err is human and we make no claim to absolute perfection, but as every day goes by we try to live up to the axiom of Metropolitan Service and our slogan, "The customer must always be satisfied," is one that is implanted in the breast of every employee from humblest to highest.

Shown here are a number of Metropolitan yards and wharves. Whether it is a wharf, yard or office it forms the corner stone of Metropolitan Service in each district of Greater Boston.

To insure Metropolitan Service requires fifteen hundred employees, one hundred and fifteen trucks and over five hundred horse-drawn teams. Coal barges without number and coal cars by the thousands are essential to the fulfillment of our duty to the public.

Metropolitan Service is a REAL Service.

PRISONERS ARE WELL-TREATED IN RUSSIA

Soldiers Now in London Say Americans Are Doing Finely, but Are Homesick

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent
Special Cable Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1919, by Universal Service.)

London, May 6.—Five soldiers of the 339th Infantry—Detroit's Own—the first American prisoners from Russia just arrived here by way of Stockholm, today gave Universal Service a wonder-tale of adventures in the black heart of mad Russia. They are:

Walter Houston, Muskegon, Mich.; George Albers, Muskegon, Mich.; Antone Vanis, Chicago; Haurilak Mike (naturalized Russian), Detroit; William Scheulte, Maniste, Mich.

They were six weeks en route from Moscow where they had been imprisoned, via Finland and Sweden. They left behind John Tripler, a Kentucky mountaineer who was lost in the crowd just as they were entraining in Moscow; M. J. Arnold of Nebraska, a Y. M. C. A. worker who was released with them, and John Ryell of Ohio, another "Y" worker.

THREE MORE PRISONERS.

Three other Americans remain prisoners in Moscow with sixty-six French and English soldiers.

When interviewed at the eagle hut here the refugees wore Bolshevist caps and nondescript clothes. The latter were supplied by the British Consul at Helsingfors. Their faces were gaunt and lined with deep furrows from months of semi-starvation. But they unanimously gave this cheerful pledge:

"We're going back to get those Bolshies as soon as we get rested and have had a big feed."

Before giving their narrative I must convey a typical heart appeal very earnestly put to me by young Scheulte:

"Tell everybody's mother back home not to worry. Our boys in Russia are doing fine. There's nothing the matter with them except homesickness."

ALBERS TELLS TALE.

By mutual consent, Albers, a raw-boned lad who mixed Russian words with his English, was appointed spokesman. Said he:

"I was captured on November 3; the others here were captured later. Scheulte did not get caught till last March 17, but we all had the same experiences. None of use I guess is ashamed of the way we got captured—they got us fighting. In my case a guy wearing a white nightgown crawled through the snow in a moonlit night when I was on sentry, gun-butted me senseless and took me with him. When I came to I was being carried on a stretcher headed for Bolshyland.

"The first thing they did when I got into the Bolshevist camp was to swipe my fur coat, shoes and uniform. They gave me a Bolshevist uniform and then, with some French and British prisoners, I started on a terrible hike for 300 versts (more than 150 miles) to Vologda. It was about 40 below zero. Otherwise we were having a hot time.

"From Vologda I was taken by train to Moscow where I was locked up in the barracks, not a regular prison.

"The Bolshies treated us fine. We never got a rough word because we were Americans — in fact the Reds tried their best to make us comfortable. We had as much as anybody to eat and they paid us twenty-five rubles when we worked.

CARRIED OUT FURNITURE.

"Often we's go down to the houses of wealthy people to carry out furniture which the government had confiscated.

"Once we dug graves for people that had starved to death. We blasted the ground four feet down. It was a nasty job. Rows of starved men, women and children were laid out on the ground. They were frozen on top of being starved, waiting for graves.

"Sunday is a scream in Bolshyland. Every Sunday all the prisoners would be taken to 'church'—really some official's house where they lectured us on bolshevism. We'd sleep during these lectures but afterwards we'd get a big feed. That feed we understood all right, all right."

BAY STATE MAN SHOT DOWN 8 AIRMEN

Donovan of Somerville Back After Strenuous Campaign With Anti-Aircraft Guns

New York, May 6.—Credited with having downed more Boche aviators with anti-aircraft guns than any other man in the American Expeditionary Forces, Lieutenant John J. Donovan of No. 16 Buckingham street, Somerville, returned here today on the American transport Santa Anna from Brest.

Lieutenant Donovan saw the greater part of his active service overseas with the First Anti-Aircraft Machine Gun Battalion, having been transferred to that regiment while training at Spartanburg, S. C., with the old Eighth Massachusetts Infantry.

The entire anti-aircraft battalion was credited with having downed twenty-eight German machines on five different sectors, and of this number Lieutenant Donovan shot down eight. He operated in five different sectors, the Aisne, Marne, Toul, St. Mihiel and in the Moselle Valley, downing all of the enemy machines between Sept. 5 and Oct. 6 at Pont au Mousson.

Donovan, who wears a Croix de Guerre with a star, and has been awarded the Army Corps citation on two different occasions, declared that his battalion was in action for seventy-two consecutive days, during the Toul fight, and that many of the men nearly died of exhaustion.

"I had always been a great duck hunter," Donovan declared today in telling of his experiences, "but I never know what excitement really was until I reached France and got into acton with that anti-aircraft outfit.

"There wasn't a dull minute during the entire day, while on the front lines, as the type of anti-aircraft guns which we were using could also be manipulated to use in direct fire against the enemy infantry and tanks."

DALLINGER DENOUNCES 'SLAVE DRIVER' BURLESON

Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger, at a meeting of the Cambridge Republican Club, called Postmaster-General Burleson a "Southern slave driver," and President Wilson a man "who, as professor, thought that the Chief Executive of the nation should be a sort of prime minister and party leader."

He predicted that the next election would see the overthrow of the Democratic party, as the people, he said, had had enough of such democracy. Concerning Postmaster-General Burleson, Mr. Dallinger said: "From March 4, 1913, when he took charge of it, the Postoffice Department has been steadily deteriorating. He has been running the department as nearly as possible as he runs the slaves on his plantation. These plantation slaves were recruited from the Southern prisons, overworked and whipped to death."

REAL BODY BUILDER FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Father John's Medicine Is All Pure Food Free From Alcohol

Builds New Flesh and Strength For All The Family

If you find that you are thin and weak, or if any member of the family needs a tonic at this season of the year, remember that the safe family medicine for you all is Father John's Medicine. Bear in mind that this old-fashioned prescription has been successfully used for more than 60 years as a tonic and body builder. If you are thin, weak and run-down it gives the very food elements which you need to re-build flesh and strength. It is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

AS YOUNG AS YOUR KIDNEYS

The secret of youth is ELIMINATION OF POISONS from your body. This done, you can live to be a hundred and enjoy the good things of life with as much "pep" as you did when in the springtime of youth. Keep your body in good condition, that's the secret.

Watch the kidneys. They filter and purify the blood, all of which blood passes through them once every three minutes. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you have nothing to fear. Drive the poisonous wastes and deadly uric acid accumulations from your system. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and you will always be in good condition. You will feel strong and vigorous, with steady nerves and elastic muscles. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. They are a reliable remedy which has been used by the sturdy Dutch for over 200 years, and has helped them to develop into one of the strongest and heartiest races of the world. Get them from your druggist. Do not take a substitute. In sealed packages—three sizes.—Advertisement.

Cadum Ointment for Eczema

If you have eczema or any other skin trouble, get a box of Cadum Ointment. It stops the itching at once and is very soothing and healing wherever the skin is irritated or inflamed. Cadum Ointment is also good for pimples, blotches, rash, eruptions, scaly skin, chafings, piles, itch, tetter, sores, scabs, ringworm, cuts, burns, insect bites, etc.

[Cadum Ointment is a French preparation made in America from the original formula.]

How You Can Make Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Helps to Beauty)

Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove the hairs, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone.—Advertisement.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

Bert Ford's Tales of the YD

In Chapter XVIII of his "Tales of the Y. D." today, Mr. Ford recounts the unexpected and interesting meetings he had with old friends in the most out-of-the-way corners of France and Germany.

These anecdotes give an idea of what different young men from home were doing overseas. Among those whom he met was Sergeant Charles V. Russell of Winthrop, formerly an undertaker in Dorchester. Charlie was attached to the Supply Train of the Yankee Division. Because of his experience as an undertaker he had been placed in a squad whose duty it was to rake the countryside hunting up the remains of missing members of the division.

He said it was grim work. Mr. Ford cites the army regulations ordering the return of the bodies of all those who died in the service abroad. He points out that such a transfer is going to be difficult and suggests that no more peaceful resting places could be found in the world than those where many of the American dead now sleep in France.

Chapter XVIII.

Copyright, 1919, by the Boston American.

In the censors' office at Neufchateau, while affairs were active in the Toul sector I met Walter A. Dragon of Lowell. He was acting as field clerk and had a chance to meet and size up all the war correspondents for newspapers and magazines.

This was mighty interesting for Walter because he was a reporter on the staff of the Lowell Courier-Citizen before entering the army. He used to write sports. Walter is twenty-four. He was graduated from the Lowell High School in 1912. He was popular with all the correspondents. He had a keen "nose for news," as the saying goes in newspaper parlance, and used to give us valuable tips.

"It was a big relief when the American hello girls took charge of the army exchanges," said Walter one day. "Their familiar 'What number please?' and 'The line is busy' sure did sound good. They tuned up the service right off the bat."

Walter is of French descent and spoke French fluently, an accomplishment which with his knowledge of shorthand made him mighty valuable in the censors' department.

MET MANY NEWS HOUNDS.

During the fighting in the Spring of 1918 in the Toul sector I met Stanley W. Prentosil of No. 81 Irving street, West Springfield. Stanley had worked in the Boston and New York offices of the Associated Press and covered the American front until he entered the army. We were sorry when he returned to the States after a few active months substituting for the regular correspondent. Prentosil made good as a war correspondent.

In Bar-le-Duc I met Captain Harold Clarke, better known as "Tad," who covered the Bay State militia for the Boston Herald on the Mexican border and who went to Plattsburg and won a captain's commission when the United States was drawn into the war. "Tad" captained an infantry company in the 76th Division at Camp Devens, and was doing intelligence work when I ran across him.

In Bar-le-Duc I met Captain Herbert E. Fleischner, son of Otto Fleischner, assistant librarian of the Boston Public Library. Herbert had been secretary for the late Postmaster Murray and was attached to Motor Supply Train No. 26. He trained at Camp Johnston.

I met Humphrey Sullivan, formerly a reporter on the Boston Herald and later on the Boston American, in Paris and again in Luxembourg. He was connected with a telephone company in Texas before winning a commission.

In Coblenz I met Lieutenant Thomas F. Moriarty of No. 492 Liberty street, Springfield, acting as billeting officer and attached to the 35th Division. Tom was one of the star tackles at Fordham. He played with Jim Thorpe and later acted as coach.

His college chum, Captain Harry Costello of Meriden, Ct., Georgetown, '13, one of the great quarterbacks of his time, trained at Fort Sheridan, was assigned to the 339th Infantry in the 85th Division and is with that regiment in Archangel fighting revolutionists on the bleak Russian steppes.

"JOE" McNALLY THERE.

In Brest when President Wilson sailed a few weeks ago, I met Billy Scharton's former law partner, Joseph H. McNally, now a captain of artillery and bigger and huskier than I had ever seen him. In Brest, too, I met Captain Edward D. Rushford of Salem, formerly of the 101st Artillery. He had established and was directing a monster base hospital as chief urologist. His organization was known as an army model.

I found H. L. Stuart, formerly of the Boston Herald reportorial staff, who covered the Lawrence strike with us, acting as British censor at the Bourse in Paris and wearing the uniform of a British lieutenant. He had been liaison officer in the British army in Italy, where he was wounded.

On the British front I met Bud Fisher, the creator of Mutt and Jeff, a captain in the British army and sporting a monocle.

Captain Charles F. Bowen, newspaperman of Manchester, N. H., was doing valuable work as assistant in G-2 of the 32nd Division beyond the Rhine.

Secretary Edward Ryan of No. 209 Broad street, Providence, R. I., of the Knights of Columbus field staff, was with Jack Donovan in Luxembourg. A piece of shrapnel grazed him on October 17, ripping his breeches, and he refused to have the rent sewn. He had a narrow escape.

A GRUESOME TASK.

In an out-of-the-way French village I came across Sergeant Charles V. Russell of Winthrop, formerly an undertaker in Dorchester and then a member of the 101st Supply Train of the Yankee Division. He told me that he had just received a letter announcing the death in an automobile accident of my close friend, William Barter, who served on the border in the machine gun company of the Fifth Regiment.

That is how you picked up morsels of home news and met friends. Sergeant Russell was one of a party detailed to search for missing dead of the Yankee Division and to locate graves in the battle area. They had been doing this grim work since soon after the armistice.

"We have had many strange and sad experiences," said Rusell. "I was selected because I am an undertaker. Only today I buried a poor fellow whose legs and head were gone. There wasn't much left but bones. It was impossible to identify him. Rats and birds had been doing their work. There are many such cases.

BLOWN TO BITS.

"Some were blown to atoms. Parts were found in trees. I fancy sections of several bodies have been buried as one. It will be impossible ever to reclaim those severely mutilated, unless where identification tags served. Here again there may be confusion. Some doughboys had a foolish habit of swapping tags. Such a trick is pat to play havoc with the records. When it comes time to send the bodies home, it is going to be a big and difficult task."

The War Department issued a general order, dated March 14, 1918, which reads:

"Remains of all officers, enlisted men and civilian employes of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps who shall have died or who may hereafter die in France shall be buried in France, until the end of the war, when the remains shall be brought back to the United States for final interment."

"Deaths at sea—Remains of all officers, enlisted men and civilian employes of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps who die on board a ship en route to or from the United States shall be embalmed and returned to the United States on board ship on which the death occurred."

Owing to the numerous deaths due to Spanish "flue" while the transportation of troops was at its height, it was impossible to follow out this order; hence burials were conducted at sea.

BEAUTIFUL CEMETERIES.

Relatives find comfort in having the remains of loved ones in cemeteries convenient to visit. If it were not for this it might be wiser in the majority of cases to let the American soldiers sleep where they lie in the picturesque valleys and on the hillsides on the edge of the battle zone of France.

In no country in the world could be found more beautiful and peaceful resting places, with poppies bathing the meadows a deep crimson in Summer, with a weather-beaten church close by, the chimes in the tower of which ring daily benedictions, with shepherds and their flocks on adjacent hills and with sympathetic French women and children eager to keep the Americans' graves fresh and green. The French peasants early asked the military authorities for permission to adopt graves which they pledged to care for, and they have carried out the benevolent work with a faithfulness that shows their gratitude for the sacrifices made by their American allies.

True it seems awfully far away, but some of the soldiers' cemeteries over there are ideally located. The most striking are the graves of aviators each with a cross made from the propeller of an aeroplane, when possible from that of the plane in which the deceased met his death. These crosses of highly polished wood glisten in the sunlight.

Nothing so graphically typifies the enduring patriotism of the U. S. A. as the sea of unpainted wooden crosses marking the graves of American patriots in France.

COL. ANDERSON 26TH'S POET.

The poet-laureate of the Yankee Division was not a Yankee at all but a big hearted Southerner—Colonel Harry B. Anderson of Memphis, Tenn., division judge advocate. The judge stepped right into the fold when he joined the division a year ago, by pulling this one:

"I'm a Yankee by adoption, but a Tennesseean by birth."

He was adopted on the spot. Under the nom de plume, "Tex Cavitt," Judge Anderson churned out quite a few poems dealing with army life and war. Here is his latest:

THE Y-D CEMETERY.

The peasant children pass it as they leave the village school,
The passing strangers cross themselves along the road to Toul,
The captains call attention as the dusty troops plod by,
The officers salute it though receiving no reply,
'Tis a spot all brown and barren 'mid the poppies in the grain—
The Y-D cemetery by a roadside in Lorraine.

A row of wooden crosses and beneath the upturned sod
The hearts once wild and restless now know the peace of God.
The brave young lads who left us while life was at its flood,
While life was fresh and joyous and fire was in the blood,
Their young lives now enfranchised from mirth or joy or pain,
They sleep the sleep eternal by a roadside in Lorraine.

Of all the myriad places for the dead of man to rest,
The graveyard of the warrior for a freeman is the best;
Oh! not for them our pity, but far across the foam
For the gray-haired mother weeping in some New England home.
'Tis she who has our pity, 'tis she who feels the pain
Of the Y-D cemetery by a roadside in Lorraine.
The plodding columns pass them along the old Toul road;
New companies come marching where yesterday they strode,
Above, the whirr of motors—beyond, the roar of guns.
Where their allies and their brothers join battle with the Huns;
And the sunlight of their glory bursts through the clouds and rain,
O'er the Y-D cemetery by a roadside in Lorraine."

BLAME YANKEE DIVISION FOR DIRTY CAMP

taches of Depot Brigade Say Debris Litters the Grounds

Camp Devens, May 6.—Charges that the officers and men of the 26th Division are responsible for the filthy condition of this ntonment in some quarters are de by attaches of the Depot Bri- ade.

It is alleged that chunks of meat and other substances were thrown in latrines, papers containing old clothes placed in bushes, whiskey bottles scattered here and there and piles of debris left for others to dispose of.

Wisconsin men of the 150th Machine Gun Battalion who arrived here recently stirred up trouble when they declared the camp was worse than the one at Brest.

Camp officials heard of the remarks made by the Wisconsin men and informed them that up to the arrival of the 26th Division a cleaner camp could not be found in this or any other country.

"We are not finding fault with the men of the 26tht Division for the part they took in the big fight across the water," said an officer of the depot brigade, "but we do object to the way in which they left the camp on their departure.

PLACE BLAME ON CROWD.

The excuse is offered that the big review and the trenendous crowd which witnessed it was responsible r the bottles and papers being scat- ed over the place. That is a matter conjecture and does not hold good, that the officers of the 26th Divis should have policed the place."

Major-General McCain today issued the following command respecting the cleanliness of the camp:

"During the week of May 4 to 10. especial effort will be made by unit commanders to improve the police and general appearance of the grounds within their respective areas."

Major Patrick H. Daniels was today ppointed to collect evidence and ake recommendations upon claims resented by private concerns against nits which have been demobilized.

All jitney men caught gambling in camp will lose their license to operate in the reservation. The authorities are bound to stop them engaging in dice games with soldiers. Quite a number were arrested and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Maloney. Four were held in $50 each for the Federal Court.

WATCH LOWELL CARS.

Watch is to be kept on the late cars from Lowell which terminate their runs in Depot Square. Some time ago Major-General McCain ordered the cars from Fitchburg covered by m bers of the provost guard and conditions have greatly improved. Of late, however, soldiers visiting Lowell return on late cars from that city in an intoxicated condition, it is stated, and annoy women passengers.

The remainder of the men of the 302nd Field Artillery will be discharged from the service tomorrow. ey were held here pending a physi- examination. With them will go men of Photo Units Nos. 17 and Members of the 149th and 150th ine Gun Battalions will be sent mps nearest their homes for dis- rge.

More than 1,000 men of the Depot gade, including a great many who e been here since the camp opened, ill be discharged Thursday. Eighteen fferent casual companies, represent- g most of the army divisions, will so return to civil life that day.

Major Hitchcock, in charge of the iberty Loan drive, reports that the en are responding generously. Some en who had large sums coming to them for services on the other side bought $50 bonds.

"DUTCH TREAT" DRINKERS MUST PAY BIGGER TAX

"Solitary drinkers" at soda fountains are discriminated against by the Department of Internal Revenue, in a ruling which says the luxury tax on drinks for the crowd will be greater f each pays for his own than if the arge all goes on a single check. instance, if four persons buy five- t drinks, each paying for his own, luxury tax will be four cents. But one in the crowd "buys" for the ers, the tax will be only two cents. itch treat" adherents will be "out ack."

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it.

Wealthy Widow Claims Her Rooms at Hotel Westminster Were Robbed

Jewels valued at $6,500, including several diamonds, were stolen from the suite of Mrs. Mary W. S. Hamilton, a wealthy Philadelphia widow, on April 7, she claims, in a suite filed against the Hotel Westminster in the Suffolk Superior Court.

The jewels, according to Mrs. Hamilton, were in a small suitcase in a closet in the bedroom of her suite on the fifth floor. All the windows were locked, she claims, as was the door. When she returned from the theatre she says she found the entire apartment lighted and the closet door open. The suitcase was gone. Nothing else in the apartment had even been disturbed.

Mrs. Hamilton has lived at the Westminster for more than a year. She is the widow of Edmund Horace Hamilton, who was a prominent New York commission merchant, with place of business in Worth street. The Hamilton house in Philadelphia is at No. 4024 Spruce street, West Philadelphia. Before the death of her husband a little less than two years since Mrs. Hamilton has resided in London.

Mrs. Hamilton says she is sure that the thief entered with a pass key. "There was no other way to get in," she said.

COUNTERFEITERS TO BE TRIED IN BOSTON

Worcester, May 6.—The federal jury in Boston will hear the cases of Rocco Lacousi and Marie Wright, alias Marie Lacousi, alleged counterfeiters, arrested here last week by secret service men. Both are held in $5,000. The counterfeiting outfit seized in the raid will also be shipped to Boston.

Millionaire Drug Man Sues Wife After Raid

New York, May 6.—Dudley P. Brown, millionaire drug manufacturer, is suing his wife, Mrs. Diamond J. Brown, for absolute divorce, as the result of a raid by detectives on a room in the McAlpin Hotel.

Brown is fifty-nine. His wife, a beautiful brunette with floating tresses, admits twenty-eight Summers. They were married in 1908 at Edwardsville, Ill. He was fifty and she nineteen.

Brown, according to the papers in the divorce suit, charges that his wife was indiscreet with a man whose name is not given, the night of March 3, last. He relates that detectives, hired by him, trailed his wife and the man to the hotel and then broke in the door of the room they are alleged to have occupied.

Mrs. Brown is represented by Jerome A. Jacobs, the attorney appointed by the order of substitution. Jacobs, it is understood, will ask $2,000 a month alimony for his client and $10,000 counsel fee.

Mr. Brown comes of an old Kentucky family.

Mrs. Brown had a few words to say about her husband's suit in her apartment at the Holywood Hotel.

"You know this whole case is a 'frame-up' on me because I wouldn't go back to him.

"He's madly in love with me, you know. And he's jealous."

Among those who contributed to the entertainment were Miss Josephine Sullivan of the Boston Public Library, Miss Normie Clifford, Joseph Leonard, Harold Hookway, Ralph Newman, Harry Lennon and "Moxie" McDermott.

CASSIDY'S SON TELLS OF GIFTS TO FAMILY

Trustee of Estate, Overcome in Will Contest, Refutes Relatives' Charges

Bangor, Me., May 6.—James W. Cassidy, trustee of the John Cassidy estate, to refute claims of the other heirs of the Bangor millionaire that he had been parsimonious with their father's money, testified in Supreme Court today in the will contest that he has given them an average of $6,000 a year in recent years.

"To Mrs. Mary Murphy I gave $25,000 from 1914 to 1918," he testified. "To Mrs. Carl R. E. O'Brien I gave the same amount approximately and to John Cassidy, Jr., I gave $14,000. Later I offered him a check for $10,000, but he declined to accept it, so I converted it into a certificate of deposit for him so that it would draw interest. I gave $17,000 to the little Rice girl, daughter of my sister Rosella, though I was under no obligation to do so.

"I distributed these sums of my own volition because I wanted them to have the money. My father was helplessly ill at the time. He did not authorize me to do this, but I thought that he would wish me to do so if he had the power to communicate his thoughts."

Mr. Cassidy, who has been under a severe mental strain since the trial began, broke down in testifying as to the intimate relations that existed between his father and himself. He denied specifically the claim of undue influence made by the other heirs.

SECRETARY GLASS AND ADMIRAL SIMS BOOST LOAN HERE

Notables Make Vigorous Speeches Urging All to Speed Victory Drive.

People Must Pay the Bills for World's Biggest Victory, Says Sims

"It is up to the people of the United States to pay the bills for the biggest victory in the history of the world. The victory is cheap at the price.

"The New England record in the war was a glorious one, and I am certain that New England is not going to fall down now in finishing the job. I repose absolute confidence and trust in the people of New England to do their share to complete the job and secure the fruits of victory. By so doing they will bring the boys home.

"Boston has always been in the lead in patriotic effort, and I expect to see Boston, Massachusetts and New England go over the top with full speed ahead.

"I hope the Boston American and other newspapers will make the people of New England realize their duty in this matter."—Admiral Sims to the American today.

gram to help Boston and New England raise $35,480,000 a day for the last five days of the drive.

The "Flying Circus" arrived by rail at noon and proceeded to Boston Common, where the twelve planes in the circus were assembled.

In addition to the airplanes, a great observation balloon was moored over the Common at a height of 1,000 feet above ground. The balloon will be here through the week. Anyone subscribing to a $10,000 Victory Note will be allowed to make the ascent and to obtain all the view and thrills that go with such a trip.

The twelve airplanes for the battle in the air were manned by picked aviators from the air services of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy.

Lieutenant John O. Donaldson, the leading American "Ace" with the circus, has a record of bringing down eight enemy planes "over there." He is a Cornell man of this year's class, as is Lieutenant Jesse Creech.

Two of the British fliers have wonderful records. Captain H. W. Woollett scored an official war count of thirty-nine enemy planes, six being downed in one day of fighting. Major Gerald Maxwell has a record of thirty-one enemy planes.

Lieutenant James C. Hall and Lieutenant Alberto Cantoni, the latter of the Italian aerial forces, are two other heroes of the air.

SHAM BATTLE BEGINS.

The sham battle, which was fought above the historic soil of Boston Common, began with an attack by four "enemy" planes on the observation balloon. The other planes, representing the allied forces, dashed to the rescue.

Spectators, who have read columns and columns about the air fighting abroad, saw today the nearest possible approach to the real thing. They gained a good idea of the "stuff" of which "aces" must be made to gain battle honors in the air.

An interesting feature of the evolutions was the photographing of the city from an airplane.

WHAT NEW ENGLAND MUST DO.

New England has $177,408,000 to raise. This means $35,480,000 to be subscribed each one of the five days of the campaign, beginning today.

The call for tremendous effort on the part of every State and community in New England if the district is to finish the job is necessary.

The total for the thirteenth day of the campaign for the district is $15,548,000, which is the fifth in size for this campaign, having been exceeded on the first, third, eighth and ninth day. It was nearly $12,000,000 short of the $32,000,000 average required yesterday to go over with credit and success.

The failure to meet the average on the thirteenth day increases the size of the average needed the rest of the week to the limit of $35,480,000.

REPORTS FROM STATES.

The total number of subscribers the gain increased for the day to 30,030, making a total of 223,883.

The detailed report State by State is:

	13th day.	Total.
Maine	$972,000	$7,487,000
New Hampshire	602,000	7,185,000
Vermont	158,000	7,668,000
Rhode Island	1,213,000	17,098,000
Connecticut	2,109,000	39,905,000
Massachusetts	10,499,000	117,361,000
Total	$15,548,000	$197,594,000

Vermont and Connecticut are almost tied, the former being a fraction of a per cent. over 80 and the latter a fraction under.

The subscription of Boston for the day was $4,467,000, making a net total of approximately $40,000,000, or still less than one-half the quota of $96,000,000.

New England began the day with six new towns over the top, making 344 in all. Dalton reported having secured 40 per cent. over its quota of $750,000.

New Hampshire contributed Milan, Mason, Hopkinton, Newington and Antrim.

BELGIANS ARRIVE FRIDAY.

The Belgian military mission joins the forces who will carry on in New England for the Victory Liberty Loan on Friday. They include 109 soldiers under six officers and will arrive at the South Station at 6:40 a. m., where they will be met by a military band and the Belgian Liberty Loan committee, who will escort them to the Hotel Bellevue.

After breakfast they will go to Liberty Court, wher they will give an exhibition of Belgian military manoeuvres. They will take part in a Liberty Loan rally at Jordan Marsh Co. At noon they motor out to the estate of Mrs. Larz Anderson for luncheon.

In the evening they return to Parkman bandstand, where the Belgian committee has arranged Belgian Night. On Saturday the entire group will go to Lynn, giving manoeuvres and joining the Liberty Loan campaign there.

Practically without an exception officers and enlisted men wear decorations awarded for personal bravery in action. The glowing colors of the Cross of Belgium, the Cross of Leopold, the Belgian War Cross and the Medal of Yser are to be seen on their tunics, while some of the men have as many as eight citations.

Henry B. Endicott has made today a subscription of $1,000,000 additional credited to Ward 5 to Boston, where his business office is located.

GENERAL COLE TO SPEAK.

Tonight is Commonwealth Liberty Loan Night at Parkman bandstand when the Commonwealth Liberty Loan Committee, made up of colored citizens, will aim at a new record in subscriptions to Liberty Loan. Brigadier-General Cole will make the chief address, and other speakers will be E. B. Barco, Rev. R. W. Swan, Stuart Hoyt, W. Graydon Stetson. Teel's Band and the Columbia Glee Club will furnish music.

Hayden Stone & Co. entered these subscriptions today:

For Mead, Morrison Co.	$1,475,000
American Zinc, additional	400,000
Pond Creek Coal Co., additional	100,000
Island Creek Coal Co., additional	100,000

Accompanying Secretary Glass were Mrs. Glass and A. M. McDermott, Mr. Glass' private secretary.

They arrived at the Back Bay station on the Federal express at 8:35. They were met by Governor Charles A. Morss of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank and Chairman Frederick H. Curtis of the bank's directors.

A bouquet of red roses was presented to Mrs. Glass. Then the party went to the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

WILL SPEAK TONIGHT.

One of he first things on Secretary Glass' Boston program was a visit to the Federal Reserve Bank with Governor Morss.

The Secretary of the Treasury will dine at the Algonquin Club this evening as guest of the New England Liberty Loan Committee. From dinner he will go to the big loan rally which begins in Symphony Hall at 8 o'clock. The secretary will speak.

Mrs. Glass was entertained at luncheon at the Chilton Club by the Women's Liberty Loan Committee of Massachusetts. The guests invited to meet her included Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Mrs. William S. Sims, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Jr., Mrs. Clarence E. Perkins, Mrs. Pliny Jewell, Mrs. John K. Allen, Mrs. Myra B. Lord, Mrs. Malcolm Lang, Mrs. L. Cushing Goodhue, Mrs. Clarence Edwards, Mrs. W. R. Rush, Mrs. Allen Curtis, Mrs. Sidney Hosmer, Miss Frances G. Curtis, Miss Mary A. Barr, Mrs. Albert W. Kaufenburgh, Mrs. P. S. Dalton, Mrs. Mary A. Mahan, Miss Marjorie Thayer, Mrs. Charles D. Voorhis, Miss Kate Brown, Mrs. Henry Parkman, Mrs. William A. Gaston, Mrs. James Dean, Mrs. Frederic Curtiss, Mrs. Alexander Whiteside, Mrs. Robert Weeks and Mrs. Grace A. Wing.

MRS. GLASS AND MRS. SIMS.

Mrs. Glass and Mrs. Sims will be entertained at dinner at 6:30 this evening at the Somerset Club by Mrs. F. L. Higginson, federal reserve chairman of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of New England and the State directors of the savings division of the War Loan organization will also be guests. After dinner they will go to the Symphony Hall rally.

Those invited include Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Jr., Mrs. C. S. Heard, Mrs. C. K. Cummings, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, Mrs. Charles A. Morss, Mrs. N. Penrose Hallowell, of Massachusetts; Mrs. John F. Hill, Mrs. Herbert J. Brown, of Maine; Mrs. Howard Parker, Mrs. Mary I. Wood, of New Hampshire; Mrs. E. C. Smith, of Vermont; Mrs. Walter A. Peck, Mrs. Alice M. Johnson, of Rhode Island; Mrs. Morgan G. Bulkeley and Mrs. Richard M. Bissell, of Connecticut.

DRIVE SPEEDING UP.

Dispatches from Washington today announced that subscriptions to the Victory Loan were expected to pass the two billion mark. From all of the twelve Federal reserve districts reports of a marked speeding up of the drive started to reach the Treasury Department early today.

Although subscriptions totalling $2,000,000,000 would represent less than half of the minimum quota—$4,500,000,000—Treasury Department officials were more optimistic than they have been at any stage of the campaign. They believed that the speeding up process would gather enough force to carry with it the half billion a day needed to put the loan over the top.

Admiral Sims Develops Sore Throat and Cancels All Speaking Engagements

Rear Admiral Sims developed serious throat trouble today at the Copley-Plaza and was obliged to cancel all of his speaking engagements for the day in Boston, including the mass meeting at Symphony Hall tonight. A specialist was called to attend him.

His voice was so weak that when Rear Admiral H. O. Dunne and staff of the First Naval District called to pay their respects they were unable to see him and visitors were denied entrance to his room.

Admiral Sims contracted a throat affliction at Philadelphia after addressing four meetings in the open air. His voice broke down when he spoke in Providence yesterday, but he was determined to speak here today until warned by the specialist that if he did he might be obliged to give up his speaking tour entirely.

Rear-Admiral Dunne took Admiral Sims' place and fulfilled all his engagements as a "pinch hitter."

U. S. SHOE MACHINERY EMPLOYES HELP LOAN

Employes of the United Shoe Machinery Company of Beverly have subscribed nearly $100,000 to the Victory Loan in an effort to help the town to attain its quota of which it still lacks $1,000,000. Superintendent George Vose, who is a member of the loan committee, is elated over the showing of the employes.

JEWISH CHILDREN TO PARADE FOR LOAN

The Liberty Loan Jewish Committee plans Victory Note pageants, rallies and shows for the remaining days of the campaign.

A feature of the Jewish night on Boston Common will be a parade of several hundred Jewish school children. An elaborate program has been arranged which consists of singing of Jewish folk songs by prominent Boston cantors, vaudeville talent now appearing at the local theatres and operatic and instrumental selections.

Off Comes Corn In One Piece

"Gets-It" Leaves Toe As Smooth As the Palm of Your Hand.

There's only one corn remedy in the world that peels corns and calluses off like a banana peel, and that's "Gets-It." For walkers and standers, for shoppers and dancers, there's immediate relief from corn pains, and a quick finish for any corn or callus. "Gets-It" is applied in two or three seconds. There's no work, no fussy plasters, no wrapping of toes. "Gets-It" dries in a second or two. That's all. As easy to use as signing your name. The corn loosens from the true flesh and you peel it right off with your fingers while you wonder at the sight and smile. That's why "Gets-It" is the biggest selling corn-remedy in the world today. Be corn-free at last.

"Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Put 2 drops of "Gets-It" on, and smile!

CITY OF BOSTON

ASSESSORS' NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 41 of Part I of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, as amended by Sec. 5, Chap. 198, Acts of 1914, all persons, firms, and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the city of Boston, are hereby notified and required to bring in to the assessors of said city ON OR BEFORE THE 15TH DAY OF MAY NEXT, true lists. In case of residents a true list of all their polls and personal estate not exempt from taxation, of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of nonresidents and foreign corporations a true list of all their personal estate in said city not exempt from taxation, which lists must be verified by oath as required by Section 43 of said Part I, as amended by Chapter 294 of the General Acts of 1916 and Chap. 93, Sec. 6, Special Acts 1918.

Under the provisions of Section 42 of said Part I, as amended by Chapter 515, Acts of 1909, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessors' office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 45 of Part I of Chapter 490, Acts of 1909. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the assessors of the city or town in which it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section forty-one, a statement under oath of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part of an estate. The assessors shall, from such statement, or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee, respectively, in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 41 aforesaid, as amended by Chapter 198, Acts of 1914, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the assessors, on or before the 15th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by them, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of April; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Tax Commissioner.

How Lack of Iron In The Blood May Change A Woman's Appearance And Break Down Her Physical Strength

While Plenty Of Iron Makes Rich Red Blood Corpuscles That Give Health, Vitality and Beauty

Every Woman Who Looks Pale, Haggard and Worn Should Have Her Blood Examined For Iron Deficiency—Administration of Simple Nuxated Iron Will Often Increase The Strength and Endurance of Weak, Nervous, Care-worn Women in Two Weeks' Time and Make Them Look Years Younger

Longing for the keen activity, the youthful step, the fresh, rosy cheeks and the sunny disposition of buoyant health is making many a woman unhappy, discontented, wrinkled and old before her time. Sleepless nights spent worrying over supposed ailments, constant dosing with habit forming drugs and narcotics and useless attempts to brace up with strong coffee do not help the real cause of their trouble, which may be nothing more than lack of iron in the blood. For want of iron a woman may look and feel old at thirty, pale, haggard, and all run-down—while at 50 or 60 with good health and plenty of iron in the blood she may still be young in feeling, and so full of life and attractiveness as to defy detection of her real age.

These illustrations show how a woman may look when she has only 25% red blood corpuscles and her blood is starving for iron and the change that takes place in her appearance when the percentage of red corpuscles increase as her blood becomes filled with strength-giving iron.

That women may become stronger, healthier, more beautiful and better able to meet the cares of home, social and business life by increasing the supply of iron in their blood is the opinion of Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon of Monmouth Memorial Hospital, New Jersey, who says: "What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their step is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs, but plenty of rich, pure red blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood-builders, and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results."

Among other physicians asked for an opinion was Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author. Dr. King says: "It is my opinion that in practically nine times out of ten, unstrung nerves and failing strength and vitality are due to deficiency of iron in the blood. Many a woman who is run-down, nervous and who quickly tires out, suffers from iron deficiency and does not know it. I am convinced that there are thousands of such women who, simply by taking Nuxated Iron, might readily build up their red-blood corpuscles, increase their physical energy and get themselves back to vibrant and vigorous health. By enriching the blood and increasing its oxygen carrying power Nuxated Iron will often transform the flabby flesh, toneless tissues, and pallid cheeks of nervous, run-down women into a glow of health and make them look years younger within a surprisingly short time."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "Dr. King is absolutely right. As I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is one of the greatest of all strength builders. Many a woman who is run-down, easily tired out, nervous and irritable suffers from iron deficiency and does not know it. I am convinced that there are thousands of such women who, simply by taking Nuxated Iron, might readily build up their red blood corpuscles, increase physical energy, and get themselves into a condition to ward off the millions of disease germs that are almost continually around us. Like Dr. King, and doubtless hundreds of other fellow physicians, I have prescribed Nuxated Iron many, many times and I have seen frequent instances where it gave renewed strength and energy, increased power and endurance, steady nerves, and the rosy bloom of health in about ten days' or two weeks' time. I consider Nuxated Iron one of the foremost blood and body builders—the best to which I have ever had recourse."

It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

URGE AMERICAN FISH STORES IN RHODE ISLAND

Central Federated Union, Representing 30,000 Toilers, Calls for Action

Providence, May 6.—A resolution indorsing the Boston American crusade against fish profiteers was unanimously passed by the Central Federated Union of the American Federation of Labor, which represents over 30,000 union workers in Rhode Island who want the American to open fish stores in Rhode Island, where they say prices are prohibitive. The delegates commended the Boston American and cited instances of "robbery" which they say exists hereabouts. Roderick F. McGarry, former president of the federated body, said:

"It is a commendable work undertaken by the Hearst newspapers and we need their services in this city. Fishermen tell me they are making little more than in former years, while the jugglers of the product are robbing the people. It would be an act of charity if the Boston American could extend their efforts to this city. Prices are horribly high and absolutely prohibitive to the working men."

The resolutions follow:

"To the officers and delegates of the Providence Central Federated Union: Whereas, the Boston American, a newspaper published in the city of Boston, has done a very commendable work in opening up fish stores, exposing the fish trust that had existed there, and materially reducing the cost of the same to the consumer, thus tending to lessen the cost of living for the working man to an appreciable extent; and, whereas, it is our earnest belief that the present spirit of unrest now prevailing is due to the profiteering of men who are trafficking in foodstuffs and conspiring to keep up the price of the same;

"Resolved, that we, the Providence Central Federated Union, ask the assistance of the Boston American and invite the aforesaid Boston American Publishing Company to open up stores in Providence, believing that they will be just as successful as in Boston, where their success and philanthropy in lessening the cost of living for the working man has been the admiration of the entire United States."

The Boston American is highly gratified at the announcement of its "Fish-at-Cost" stores by the Providence Central Federated Union and at the union's request that a chain of these stores be started in Rhode Island. But the American announced on April 30 that it had discontinued the chain of these stores which it had been operating in and around Greater Boston. These stores were discontinued after the American had demonstrated that fish could be sold at retail, and at a reasonable profit, for prices far less than were being charged by the regular dealers.—(Editor American.)

BROOKLINE BOYS MISSING FOUR WEEKS

The disappearance of three Brookline school boys caused much worry to their mothers.

Four weeks ago Francis Cochrane, fifteen years, of No. 30 Perry street; Xavier Mahoney, fifteen years, of No. 38 Boylston street, and Anthony Ford of Brookline avenue, left Brookline and not a word has been heard from them since.

Who's Who in the 26th Division

The late Captain Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., who served on Major-General Edwards' staff as aide until his death at Souilly, near Verdun, October 22, 1918, from pneumonia, was born in New York city December 14, 1885.

Captain Simpkins was married at Emmanuel Church, Boston, January 28, 1911, to Miss Olivia Thorndike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Thorndike. They had two sons, N. S. Simpkins, 3d, aged eight, and Oliver Simpkins, nineteen months of age.

Captain Simpkins was educated in the primary schools at Washington, D. C.; at Pomfret School, Connecticut; St. Mark's, Southboro, Mass., and Harvard University. He went to Texas with the Salem Battalian of the First Massachusetts Field Artillery as sergeant quartermaster during the Mexican fracas in 1916. He was elected lieutenant while in Texas.

In June, 1917, he was appointed by General Edwards as aide, and did duty in that capacity at the Department of the Northeast. He received his promotion to captaincy in July, 1917, and went overseas with the Yankee Division, September 14, serving as General Edwards' aide until death. Prior to going to Texas he was in the insurance business for a short time.

CAPT. NATHANIEL S. SIMPKINS.

TO FORCE FULL MEASURE FROM OIL MEN

Every dealer in gasoline will be forced to give full measure on penalty of being haled into court, according to Commissioner of Standards Thure Hanson.

In his new drive the commissioner is aided by a device by means of which he is able to tell at an instant's glance precisely how much gasoline is being delivered by the pump or other receptacle of the dealer. The device is in the form of a large can similar in shape to the cans in which milk is sold by wholesalers. In the neck of this is a glass gauge so adjusted that each line indicates a pint. In case of a purchase of five gallons, or whatever the can is supposed to contain, a shortage of a pint is indicated if the liquid shows one mark below the five-gallon point, etc.

The device is so placed in the automobile that the operator is able to bring his machine to a stop in front of a garage, remove the cap from his tank and permit the dealer to pump in the gasoline. The operator then drives just out of sight, perhaps around the corner, and then inspects the gauge on the "gas tank." The story is out.

Lee, May 6.—A case of "sleeping sickness" is baffling the skill of Lee physicians. Hosea D. Parker has been for three weeks in a deep sleep. Some days ago it was possible to arouse him for a few minutes, after which he again lapsed into unconsciousness. He said he has no pain.

JITNEY BUS LINE TO BRING BACK 5-CENT FARE

Boston Motor Transportation Company Is Incorporated to Do Passenger Business

By the incorporation of the Metropolitan Boston Motor Transportation Company, commuters in the suburban districts will soon be able to ride to or from their places of daily toil for the sum of five cents. This concern is incorporated for $100,000 to do general motor transportation business, which includes the operation of a jitney passenger service, general trucking and the buying and selling of motor cars and supplies.

The plans have not yet been completed for the operation of jitneys, but the officials are planning for speedy arangement of this matter. After the cars are in actual operation the concern will purchase additional jitneys and increase the number of routes as business warrants.

The next step will be to secure a license from the town and city governments where they intend to operate. In some places applications have already been filed for a license.

Five cents will be the cost of fare on all routes. Many routes are being considered for regular service but none of them has been definitely decided as yet.

N. Y. COURTS REFUSE TO HAVE TENANTS EJECTED

New York, May 6.—Following dispossess proceedings, the courts here refused to permit landlords to eject tenants along upper Broadway and Riverside drive until they had been given a week to find new apartments.

Dispossess proceedings were brought by the landlords when the tenants refused to pay higher rents imposed on May 1, and hundreds of persons apeared in the municipal courts in opposition.

Faller, Boston, Wins Army Marathon in France

By International News Service.

Coblenz, May 6.—Fred Faller of the Boston Athletic Association won the Marathon race in the three days' athletic meet ending at Le Mans today. The distance was eight miles, and Faller made it in 41 minutes and 53 seconds.

P. C. Thompson threw the javelin 164 feet and 8 inches. The various divisions of the American Army of Occupation in Germany have formed baseball teams of "pros" and "semi-pros," and these will tour the bridgehead area.

Lieutenant Paul Treanor of Boston, who won the tennis championship of the Army of Occupation, has been entered in the athletic tournament which will begin next month.

A Rugby football team from the American Army of Occupation, made up of California stars, will play a French army team.

BOSTON POLICE MAY HAVE AIR BEATS SOON

Officials in Atlantic City to Watch Efficiency Tests of N. Y. State Police

An aerial traffic squad in the Boston Police Department is an eventuality of the not very distant future. Cambridge is likely to follow suit, too.

Police officials from both cities, sent by Mayors Peters and Quinn, are in Atlantic City today watching the "efficiency test" given by the airmen of the New York State police. Colonel Jefferson D. Thompson, chief of the New York air forces, was scheduled to fly out from the shore air port to meet his detail off Barnegat and escort them to the landing place at Chelsea Heights. Major S. Herbert Mapes and Major Granville Pollock, deputy chief and wing commander of the air patrol, have been at Atlantic City since the opening of the aviation meet, and have laid out the "beats" for the aerial police.

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home with Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy:

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also, that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their military wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

(Signed

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American is dedicated to the purpose of doing things for the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. It is for officers and men alike. Answers to questions will be published in the American daily, and many personal services will be done for the soldiers and sailors as stated below.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Persons finding the discharge papers of soldiers or sailors should make every effort to return them to their owners. A discharge paper cannot be duplicated. The War Department can only issue a certificate that the discharge has been given. Frequently the owner loses his original, and would greatly appreciate its return.

All inquiries addressed to this department should be accompanied by the full name and address of sender to insure personal attention if necessary.

Recipe to Make a Gray Hair Remedy

A. L. Paulson, M. D., who has practiced medicine in New York City for many years, gave out the following recipe for a home-made gray hair remedy: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the following simple remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 4 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Directions for mixing and use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box.

"It is safe, it does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

HAWAIIAN PLAY SCORES HIT AT MAJESTIC

Nothing dimmed by a long and successful run both in this city and on the road, "The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's Hawaiian romance, opened an engagement at the Majestic Theatre last night.

With Florence Rockwell recently returned from a tour of Australia and New Zealand, and a well chosen cast the production was as impressive as when it opened to a deeply moved audience for the first time. The production is by Oliver Morosco, and featured an excellent company of Hawaiian singers.

In its Pacific Island setting with the thrilling music of islanders who seem peculiarly endowed by nature with a lyric gift, the play made an eloquent appeal to the emotions.

Billed as the "drama of a woman's soul" it is really much more than that. It combines a romantic story, such as is dear to the heart of both youth and unjaded middle age, with a highly picturesque setting and a gorgeous spectacle. The volcano scene created an illusion that will not be soon forgotten. It had the horror and the unearthly beauty of reality, and proved a fitting climax to an extraordinary story.

The tale unfolded is that of Luana, beautiful Hawaiian princess who loves and is wooed by an American. As in "Madame Butterfly," they mate, and as in "Madame Butterfly" the bond which means life to the woman proves non-enduring to the man. The line of demarcation between two races cannot be bridged and the forsaken princess offers herself, a human sacrifice to the native goddess Pele, to atone for her desertion from the traditions of her people, and save them from catastrophe.

Miss Rockwell proved that her role was congenial and injected a powerful appeal into the very human story. The part is sympathetic, but it is not given to every actress to invest it with reality and charm. This Miss Rockwell did, aided by the rest of the cast. Its members included John Waller, Spring Byington, Robert Br[illegible]ter, Albert Andruss, John Sumner, Rose Watson and the Hawaiian singers.

The musical features of the production deserve a special word of [illegible]. Although so [illegible] in the [illegible] of [illegible] sentimental character as to have some[illegible] what the effect of [illegible] the [illegible]—to be [illegible] by guitars and not by gorn ands. It is [illegible] of character and charm. The [illegible] cative rhythms no less than the [illegible] ously flowing melody made the [illegible] effect on the audience, and the singers were warmly applauded and [illegible] called.

The show is an unusual combination of romantic drama and spectacle and well worth seeing more than once.

GAYETY THEATRE—Dave Marion's Own Company, with the one and only Dave Marion heading a cast of stars, appeared in a six act revue in ten gorgeous scenes entitled "America's Best."

Not content with merely one or two big stars in one production, Mr. Marion engaged a list of people whose work is of the highest type in their respective lines.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Two full length photo plays, news pictures and comedies opened a week of daily changing bills at the Columbia. There were thrills and to spare during the motion picture features of the program and laughs for the comedy features. A different bill will be shown each day.

GLOBE THEATRE—Lila Lee in "Rustling a Bride," a happy modern romance of a young girl suddenly left alone in the world, opened the week at this theatre. Through an odd circumstance she is the attraction of two men of the plains who seek her for marriage. The adventures of the girl form a series of stirring interest, all leading to a happy ending. The other photoplay showed Shirley Mason in "The Unwritten Code."

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Harry Hirst and his company in a one-act comedy by Samuel Shipman entitled "The Good for Nothing," with other variety acts and motion pictures feature this week's bill at the Orpheum. The vaudeville includes Sherman, Van and Hyman in comedy and songs, Forrest and Church, singers and dancers, a song spectacle called "The Girl in the Basket," and Lanlon and Arthur, wheel comedians. The pictures includes a new series, the Sidney Drews in "Harold, the Last of the Saxons," and Lila Lee in "Rustling a Bride."

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Heart of Humanity" entered upon its final week here after a long and successful run. It tells a thrilling war story, including the wonderful achievements of the trained nurses' corps of the Red Cross. The film deals with the nurse better than any other picture and Dorothy Phillips in her Red Cross uniform reflects credit upon the great organization.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents—Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.—Advertisement

HEYDLER LAUDS HERO HANK; UP GOES FUND'S TOTAL

President John Arnold Heydler of the National League is out front setting the pace in the American's drive to secure a fund with which to secure a fitting testimonial for Hank Gowdy of the Braves.

He came to bat today with a check for $100 and a snappy letter in which he wished success to the campaign to do honor to baseball's great war hero.

Let the baseball fans of Boston and New England be inspired by Heydler's generous gift and send in their nickels, dimes and quarters. Those who are plentifully supplied with the goods of the world may give more if they desire.

The American, however, is eager to get the small contributions so that all may have a part in the testimonial.

Heydler has always been one of Gowdy's greatest admirers. The National League's president was at one time a semi-professional player himself and appreciates the difficulties of the man who battles out on the diamond.

PLAYED BALL HIMSELF.

Heydler passed through the stages of semi-professional player, baseball writer on a daily newspaper, big league umpire, secretary and treasurer of the National League and finally was elected head of the parent organization. He [illegible] the positions of secretary and treasurer.

Heydler is a man who does things. So it was only natural that the Gowdy fund would receive a hearty response from him. Enclosed with Heydler's check was a brief letter to John B. Gulooly, sporting editor of the American, which said:

> "Sure! We'll finish the job'—the testimonial to Old Faithful Hank Gowdy included. Best wishes to it!
> "(Signed) John A. Heydler."

The youngsters continue to send in their contributions. [illegible] they are not enclosing checks for $100, but nobody desires them to send even as much as $1.

KIDS DOING THEIR BIT.

Let the kids send along their nickels and dimes and their elders will see to it that there are enough fifty cent pieces and $1 contributions to make the campaign a glorious success.

The management of the Braves is planning a Hank Gowdy Day. It looks as if Saturday, May 17, would be the date selected, provided the celebrated backstop is out of the army and back in his baseball togs by that time.

It is the desire of the American to present Gowdy with the fans' testimonial on the day set aside to honor the distinguished member of the Rainbow Division.

So let all give [illegible] full assistance in order that there may be enough money in the treasury of the fund by May 17 to secure a fitting gift for Hankus Pankus.

WHOOP 'ER UP.

He does not [illegible] have a fuss made over anything he does. He says when he enlisted for the service in the trenches he did so because Uncle Sam needed fighting men.

Now he's back from over there, the same smiling, easy going athlete who helped Stallings back in 1914 to crush the Athletics in the world's series. And the baseball fans want to show him how much they appreciate what he has done for us all.

It's the best [illegible] of the [illegible]. Get your contributions in as quickly as possible!! You can't lose!!!

He smiled at me wanly but apologetically as we left the elevator and added with a little effort to poke fun at himself:

"It's been a wretchedly lonely evening, even though I've spent part of it with you dear lads."

I turned from [illegible] the keyhole and laid my hand on Terry's arm.

"Terry, I know," I said. "I love Betty, too. I only found it out last night, but it's been [illegible] through to daylight [illegible] while."

Then I [illegible] switched on the light [illegible] ash tray, cigarettes [illegible] and hurried into my bedroom.

I took a long time removing my canteen cap and apron and hanging away my cape. When I felt I'd given Terry time enough to adjust himself to the disappointment of finding no word from Betty [illegible]

"Anne," he said, accepting the new status my calling him "Terry" had established. "Anne—you [illegible] said—you loved her."

He stumbled over the words [illegible] I took his hands as if he were [illegible] trouble [illegible] led him to the big couch. I pushed him down in the very comfiest corner and [illegible] into a little low chair facing him. Then looking at him with the big-sister smile that he [illegible] had needed [illegible] slowly and quietly:

"Terry, [illegible] I said [illegible] loved Betty [illegible]

Terry looked [illegible] est astonishment. He didn't dream how very evident his feeling for Betty had always been to me. For a second a boyish, almost shamefaced grin flickered out on his face. It made me like him better than ever and I held out my hands in pleading.

"Oh, Terry, can't you trust me? You've been so loyal to Jim and me. Aren't we really friends? Betty said friendship has to—go two ways."

Again Terry smiled—a man's smile now, a little wan, perhaps, but very real and true, for all that. And at his first words I knew that the barriers of his reserve had gone down—swept away not by chance but by his own choice. Terry did trust me.

"So you've guessed that I [illegible]. Oh, Anne, I [illegible] to have Betty happy. And she's ghost-ridden."

(Ghost-ridden? Jim said that very thing Terry. He said you both were—for a man who probably did not deserve it. Oh, Terry, Terry, don't you think you need some one to look at things for you and see them simply and without any of the awful background of the war and bloody fields that seem to be stifling—stifling things for you and Betty! Don't you?)

"Ghost-ridden. Both of us. Perhaps!" he said slowly. "Well, Sister Anne, you love Betty, too. And so I'm going to tell you the whole story—hers and mine and Atherton's."

THRILLING ROMANCE OF AN AMERICAN GIRL

One of the Latest and Most Heart Stirring Novels From This Famous Author's Pen

Copyright, 1919, by Robert W. Chambers.

"I'm not teasing you," he insisted. "What I say is true. I'm grateful to you for violently injecting romance into my perfectly commonplace existence. You have taken the book of my life and not only extra illustrated it with vivid and chromatic pictures, but you have unbound it, sewed into its prosaic pages several chapters ripped bodily from a penny-dreadful, and you have then rebound the whole thing and pasted your own pretty picture on the cover! Come, now! Ought not a man to be grateful to any philanthropic girl who so gratuitously obliges him?"

Her face turned under his raillery; her clasped hands in her lap were twisted tight as though to maintain her self-control.

"What do you want of me?" she asked between lips that scarcely moved.

He laughed, sat up, stretched out both arms with a sigh of satisfaction. The color came back to his face, he dropped one leg over the bed's edge, and she stood erect and stepped aside for him to rise.

No dizziness remained; he tried both feet on the floor, straightened himself, [illegible] malicious glance at her, and slowly rose to [illegible]

"Scheherazade," he said [illegible] finally, "[illegible] did you ever hear of a world of murderers and [illegible] on such [illegible] terms. Did you?"

He was going through a few [illegible] eagerly, but with increasing abandon while he spoke.

"[illegible] thank you. I am thinking this situation extremely too [illegible] It's absurd; it's enchanting [illegible] There is only one [illegible] could make it perfectly impossible. And I'm going to [illegible]." And he deliberately encircled [illegible] waist and kissed her.

She [illegible] and as [illegible] two blindly, toward the [illegible] there with one hand against [illegible] as though supporting herself.

After a few moments, and very slowly, she turned and looked at him, and that young man was [illegible] for the first time since their [illegible] in Brooklyn [illegible]

[illegible] was to an [illegible] menace; nothing he had ever seen before in any woman's face, nothing that he now comprehended. Only, for the moment, it seemed to him that something terrible was gazing at him out of [illegible] fixed eyes—something that he did not recognize as part of her—another being hidden within her staring out through her eyes at him.

"For heaven's sake, Scheherazade—" he faltered.

She opened the door, still watching him over her shoulder, shrank through it, and was gone.

He [illegible] for a full five minutes as though stupefied, then walked to the door and flung it open. And [illegible] off [illegible] face to face [illegible] raising his hand to knock for admittance.

"Mr. Neeland?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Captain West's compliments, and he would be glad to see you in his cabin."

"Thank you. My compliments and thanks to Captain West and I shall call on him immediately."

They exchanged bows; the officer turned, hesitated, glanced at the steward who stood by the port.

"Did you bring a radio message to Mr. Neeland?"

"Yes, sir."

"Yes, I received the message," said Neeland.

"The captain requests you to bring the message with you."

"With pleasure," said Neeland.

So the officer went away down the corridor and Neeland sat down on his bed, opened the box, went over carefully every item of its contents, relocked it with a grin of satisfaction, and, taking it with him, went off to pay a visit to the captain of the Volhynia.

The bearded gentleman in the stateroom across the passage had been listening intently to the conversation with his ear flat against his keyhole.

And now, without hesitating, he went to a satchel which stood on the sofa in his stateroom, opened it, took from it a large bundle of papers and a ten-pound iron scale-weight.

Attaching the weight to the papers by means of a heavy strand of copper wire, he mounted the sofa and hurled the weighted package into the Atlantic Ocean.

"Pig-dogs of Britain!" he muttered in his golden beard. "You may go and dive for them when The Day dawns!"

Then he filled and lighted a handsome porcelain pipe and puffed it with [illegible] satisfaction, leaving the pipe-bowl's silver cover open.

[illegible] in his golden beard [illegible] eyes swept the starlit ocean with the pensive and terrifying scrutiny of a waiting eagle.

Meerschaum

Eski Scheir, in Asiatic Turkey, has one unique claim upon public interest and if one is a smoker that claim is a compelling one. It is the home of meerschaum. Meerschaum in abundance is found only on the plain of Eski Scheir and this city produces all the marketable meerschaum in the world.

Meerschaum, as its name implies, is supposed to be petrified sea foam and has been discovered floating on the Black Sea. Apart from the Eski Scheir mines it occurs in Greece, Samos, Spain, Moravia, [illegible], Pennsylvania and in conjunction with serpentine in Norway and South Carolina.

[illegible] are said to have used it as a decorative stone in buildings and this seems to have been confirmed by the recent excavations in Corfu. It is soft and whitish, and becomes malleable like clay when soaked in water.

Meerschaum used to be considered a mere curiosity by the Turks, who had no other use for it than as a substitute for fuller's soap. The story runs that the Turkish Ambassador at the Austrian court, in the eighteenth century, was a native of Eski Schier. Wanting to help his city at a time of great poverty he took a sample of this queer stuff to Vienna, thinking that the "Franks," as all foreigners were then called, might have some use for it. The Germans were quick to see its utility for pipe bowls, but declared that it was good for nothing else.

More than a century has confirmed this judgment, for who has yet discovered any other use for meerschaum? For pipe making it is an ideal raw material. Here is a stone which is easily moulded when wet, and when dry becomes hard and resistant.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

Stocks Firm and Active in the Boston Market; New York Exchange Closes for Parade

CEMENT ISSUES LOCAL TRADING FEATURE

Walworth and United Shoe Are Among Prominent Shares During Morning

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

The Boston market was firm at the opening and prices for active issues ruled higher during the morning. By noon the majority of prominent stocks were showing gains. It was largely a market of specialties, with cement issues a feature. Stewart and Fairbanks sold at record highest prices, while International Portland cement common and preferred, Cuban Portland Cement common, U. S. Smelting, United Shoe, Island Creek and Walworth all brought the highest prices quoted for them so far this year. Food stocks began firm and remained so, with the exception of Libby, which was showing a small loss near the end of the forenoon. Swift International was the strongest in this group. Copper issues averaged lower, Mohawk being off two points.

United States Steel ranged from 98¾ to 99⅛ on a few sales. On one sale Union Pacific sold a small fraction under yesterday's closing figure in New York. Anaconda was a trifle higher here than its final New York price of Monday. The local market was active and business was comparatively broad.

NOON GAINS AND RALLIES.

Gains around 12 o'clock included Amoskeag 1 at 96, Anaconda ⅛ at 63, U. S. Steel ⅜ at 99⅛, Walworth ½ at 23½, U. S. Smelting 2½ at 54½, Swift International ⅜ at 63, Swift & Co. ½ at 149, United Shoe ½ at 55, Stewart ½ at 48¾, Fairbanks 1 at 65, Cuban Portland Cement 1⅝ at 18⅝, International Portland Cement common ⅝ at 8⅝, preferred 2 at 28, Island Creek ½ at 48½, Island Oil ¼ at 8½, Ventura Oil ⅛ at 12, East Boston Land ⅛ at 6⅛, Gorton Pew ½ at 35 and Isle Royale ½ at 25.

Among declines were Mohawk 2 at 55½, Quincy 1 at 55, Osceola ½ at 46, East Butte ¼ at 8⅛, New Cornelia ¼ at 17¼, Chino ¼ at 37, Warren Brothers 1½ at 44½, Booth ⅛ at 21½, Massachusetts Gas ½ at 76½ and Punta Alegre Sugar 1 at 58. American Zinc, American Telephone, Arizona Commercial and New River were unchanged.

WOOL BUYERS IN MONTANA.

Among the Boston wool houses which have representatives in Montana to make wool contracts are the Jeremiah Williams Co. and the Hallowell, Jones & Donald Co. Boston buyers are offering to contract for wool at 50 cents a pound. This price is higher than was expected at the beginning of the season.

CHANGE IN COMMISSIONS.

Notice has been sent to members by the Boston Stock Exchange that commissions to be charged clients of brokerage houses will be virtually the same as suggested by the New York Stock Exchange to members, except that in a few minor instances, where stocks sell for less than $10 a share, the Boston commission rate will be lower.

MAY ASK FOR COPPER SUBSIDY.

A communication from Houghton, Michigan, in regard to the copper mining situation at the Lake district says that two plans to relieve producers are being discussed. "One," it is stated, "is to ask a government subsidy of copper mines on the same plan wheat farmers now enjoy. The other is to start a national advertising campaign to bring about more general use of copper. 'Buy a bar of copper' may become a slogan as common as 'Buy a bale of Cotton' was."

FARMERS REPORT A SHORTAGE OF LABOR

The labor surplus which is so much discussed is confined to industrial centres, for help is greatly needed in agricultural sections. For the week ending April 19 there were three jobs for every available farm hand. Reports from this State and Georgia are lacking, but in all others, except California, with record-breaking crops in sight, farmers are fearing a labor shortage.

But a campaign is in progress headed by A. L. Barkman of Kansas City, to enlist an army which will be ready for work in the fields by the time the wheat crop has ripened.

April Mining Production

Smelter production in April by the Arizona Company was 2,400,000 pounds, compared with 2,300,000 in March, 3,000,000 in February and 3,600,000 in January this year. April, 1918, production was 4,200,000 pounds.

The April copper production of East Butte was 1,347,650 pounds, a decrease of 352,650 pounds as compared with March production. With the exception of February, when the output was 633,560 pounds, the April figure is the lowest for any month since March, 1916.

Butte & Superior in April produced 8,250,000 pounds of zinc in concentrates and 150,000 ounces of silver.

Corporation Reports

The East Boston Company reports for the fiscal year ended by March receipts totalling $106,732, payments of $105,370 and a cash balance of $20,350. The company's receipts from land sales during the year amounted to $56,471.

For 1918, the Wabash Railway reports surplus after charges of $2,581,324, equal to $4.34 a share earned on $39,464,500 5 per cent. profit sharing preferred "A". In the preceding year the surplus was $4,172,045, which, after allowing 5 per cent. on the preferred "A" stock, was equivalent to $3.82 a share earned on the preferred "B" stock.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY
Dividend No. 209

A quarterly dividend of two dollars per share will be paid May 15, 1919, to stockholders of record at close of business April 30, 1919.

J. F. KANE, Secretary.
Chicago, April 21, 1919.

COPPER MINING MAY HAVE TO STOP

Surplus Increasing So Fast General Suspension a Possibility

News from Michigan that Calumet and Hecla and its subsidiaries were to lay off 2,000 miners and reduce production to half of normal, added to the gloom in copper metal circles and it is stated that an authority representing the largest producers in the world says that unless buying begins in volume within a month or two there must be an almost complete suspension of mining operations and dividends.

The amount of copper metal now above ground, according to an estimate from this source, is about 1,500,000,000 pounds, which is nearly 1,000,000,000 in excess of the quantity carried by producers and refiners in normal times. While production is at present only about a per cent. of productive capacity, foreign and domestic buying is scarcely at the rate of 25 per cent.

April production was slightly under the March figures so far as can be judged by the reports of the Anaconda, Miami, Phelps-Dodge and Old Dominion companies but there was a radical decrease for the period embracing the first four months of this year. The following table shows production by pounds by the companies named in January, February, March and April, 1919, in comparison with corresponding 1918 and 1917 periods.

	1919	1918	1917
Anaconda	55,950,000	59,750,000	103,584,000
Phelps Dodge	37,659,000	61,803,255	78,243,965
Miami	18,776,701	19,330,303	19,300,343
Old Dominion	10,135,000	9,457,000	11,927,000
Total	122,521,000	150,425,458	213,055,308

Quotations for copper reported from New York appear to be merely nominal and do not excite much interest. They are 15⅝ to 15½ cents a pound delivered by the largest agencies and 15¼ to 15⅝ by smaller selling interests.

The present stagnation of copper mining contrasts with 1918 activity. For the last quarter of that year the Chile Copper Company reports production as 29,305,514 pounds, compared with 23,398,490 for the third quarter.

RUBBER COMPANIES TO REDUCE TIRE PRICES

It is reported in the rubber trade that leading producers are preparing to reduce tire prices from 15 per cent. to 20 per cent., and that the new schedules may be in force early in June. This will be the first reduction in this line since January, 1916. In 1917 there were four advances, aggregating 40 per cent. In April, 1918, prices were advanced again 10 per cent.

But producers deny profiteering. A standard 32x4 safety tread fabric tire which in August, 1914, cost $27.50 is today priced at only $32.30.

New York Exports Increase

An increase in domestic exports through the port of New York is reported for March, compared with February and January. March exports totalled $304,787,424, against $304,322,626 in February, and $257,926,567 in January, 1919. For three months they were $867,106,617, compared with $778,289,033 for the corresponding three months of 1918.

Cotton Acreage Decrease

According to the estimate of the National Ginners' Association, the reduction in cotton acreage this year will be about 14.6 per cent.

MARCH RAIL EARNINGS SHOWED A DECREASE

Compared with February railroad earnings for March this year were not so favorable. For February but two out of forty-three roads reported a decrease in gross earnings, while in March twelve out of thirty-nine reported an increase of more than $1,000,000 in gross, but for March there were only three out of thirty-nine so favored.

As regards operating income in March, nine out of thirty-nine reported a deficit.

Greatest Opportunity That United States Ever Faced

A computation by H. L. Aldrich of Marine Engineering shows a present American investment of more than four and one-half billions in shipyards and ships. In shipyards alone the investment exceeds a thousand million dollars. In 1914 it was one-sixth as much.

If we go on with our plans the United States will soon have a sixteen million ton merchant marine—a carrying service on the seas almost equal to our railroad plant on land.

That "if," however, is important. Already the Shipping Board has begun to lighten its load. Having adopted no policy for the future control of our shipping, the danger is great that the rebound from war extravagance will swing us into pinching the pennies and missing golden opportunities.

The immediate saving of a few million dollars would be costly indeed if achieved at the sacrifice of our opportunity to seize leadership of the world's carrying trade.

Never more ought Americans to pay two hundred million dollars a year to foreign ship owners for ocean freights.

Never more ought a war to find us dependent on foreign navies and ships for transports.

American independence, so secure on land, should be achieved on the seas.

This great new shipbuilding plant, this great start, should be continued with all the government backing needed.

The fleet of new ships, increased as fast as pending contracts can be completed, should remain a property of the government as the pathfinders to new commerce and the servitors of all the people without discrimination.

If in the pioneer stages of the re-establishing of our flag upon the commercial seas a loss is necessary, it should be borne, as a matter of patriotic pride, by the entire people.

Nor does our obligations stop here. There is not a port in the United States fully equipped for the speediest and cheapest loading and unloading of ships or for the most economic feeding to the wharves of a steady supply of freight,

Under the anarchy of private ownership the railroads have throttled the rivers and canals and monopolized waterfronts until, in place of co-ordination, we have terminal confusion, jams and utterly absurd wastes.

In the trade war which will follow peace our foreign competitors will face no such handicaps and to maintain our high wage levels we shall have to make our machinery competitively efficient.

This will mean unified and competent port control, with power and courage to spend whatever is needed to make shipping facilities superior.

It will mean that the railroad which tries to seize a waterfront or the realty speculator who tries to hold up a terminal development must be curbed.

For the nation it will mean outlets for our commerce not controlled by foreign shipping trusts, and movement of our products across seas as freely as across our continent.

Parsimony, timidity and short-sightedness can waste this opportunity, and if it is ignored its like may never recur. The nation now needs its best brains in the shipping. The nation could command in war the best brains for one dollar a year, but it must now go out into the market and buy the best brains. Nothing less than the best will do.

The Salvation Army Sees a Job It Is Fitted to Do

If anybody can make the "dry" saloon do a useful service as "the poor man's club," the Salvation Army, with its exact knowledge of human nature, ought to be able to.

Hence the public will welcome Commander Booth's announcement that the Army will move into many saloons the day that John Barleycorn moves out.

Previous attempts to conduct saloons without alcohol have been many and varied, but they have all failed. They have either missed the right appeal to average men or the competition of booze has been too strong.

But nation-wide prohibition compels an approach to this problem from a new angle, for you cannot safely demolish one institution deeply rooted in human habit without somehow evolving a substitute.

The same straight-to-the-task skill which the Salvation Army showed in ministering to the soldiers in the trenches in France when more pretentious welfare organizations were functioning miles in the rear marks it as peculiarly fitted to take into its custody the remains of the saloon when alcohol goes.

When the Army conducts its May drive for $13,000,000 this prospective service should be kept in mind.

PUTTING A GROUCH IN WRITING

A nationally known manufacturer says that one way he has to adjust differences between heads of his departments is to have them write on a card the following: "I have a grouch because——"

The next time you get into a dispute where you are employed—or at your home even—try writing an answer to the question, "Why am I grouchy?"

Perhaps, old man, you passed some hot words with your wife before you left home this morning, thereby starting a lot of ill-feeling which has not been forgotten by you nor by your wife.

It was a silly thing to quarrel about—did not amount to anything.

Vexing, perhaps, but of such slight importance you might have overlooked it and thereby stifled the "grouch" you have had all day.

Be sensible and realize that you display great weakness in allowing yourself to become so exercised over small matters.

How would it look to you should you write the whole occurrence on paper?

You would surely feel very much ashamed of yourself,

BIG BOY NOW

Tony, the "baby" elephant at Franklin Park, is growing up. He is approaching the size of his bulky parents and objects to playing some of the infantile tricks that have featured the elephant amusement program for spectators. Probably he thinks they are undignified. Next thing Tony will wish to sit up till nine o'clock, have spending money of his own and a key to the front door. Some day, too, he may be caught smoking cigarettes.

NOT A CHANCE.

It was a poor little fire in a tenement house closet in Quincy. An alarm sounded and "look who's here." Along came motor apparatus, Chief Billings of Quincy Fire Department, Chief Preble of Fore River Fire Department and no less than fifteen fire chiefs of other cities and towns, who happened to be guests of Chief Billings for the day. There was enough fire-fighting genius on hand to put out the flames in a certain celebrated place. This little closet spark drew seventeen chiefs. It died in the closet where it was born. Like "Yum," it never had a chance.

Letters to the Editor

No Longer Observed

Editor Boston American:

Reading the Boston American of Friday, May 2, on the Magazine page, I ran across an article headed, "Do You Know That—" under which heading appeared a paragraph with reference to a certain custom observed in Siam. I, being a citizen and permanent resident of Siam, would be naturally interested in the above mentioned paragraph. The custom which you mentioned in your article such as being of present condition has completely disappeared, although this custom was observed thirty or forty years ago. Besides, present conditions of Siam are such that slavery and any kind of public labor have been completely abolished, and any infringement of this is dealt with according to the law.

Hoping this misunderstanding or wrong interpretation with reference to the mentioned affairs will be rectified within the near future, otherwise this paragraph may form in the opinion of the persons who have read it an absolutely wrong and absurd idea of the custom referring to the contraction of debts and their payments in the kingdom of Siam.

FOR A friend of ours.

LOOKING ON THE BRIGHT SIDE OF THINGS

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

A girl wrote me a letter telling me of a queer little experience she had. She said that a friend had given her the little group of figurines called "The Monkeys of Nippon." One monkey holds its paws over its eyes, the next is covering its ears, and the third its mouth, thus silently admonishing the beholder "To see no evil, hear no evil and speak no evil."

The girl was immediately impressed and made a good resolution on the spot. She fully intended to follow the unspoken mandate of wisdom. She put the little group on her dressing table, so that she might frequently be reminded of her new purpose.

But as she went about with this new idea in her mind, she was shocked to discover that hardly any one she knew ever spoke of the good and beautiful things of life. They did not seem to think that these deserved any particular mention. Instead, she heard on every side stories of tragedy, sickness, sorrow and woe.

The negative side of existence seemed to be the only one that people in general saw, heard or talked about. If she greeted an acquaintance she was met with something like this:

"Oh, I am all right, but we have had the most awful time at home. Father has been desperately ill, mother is all worn out, and every-one we know has been having terrible things happen to them." Or, "Have you heard about the accident? Isn't it too awful?"

Always Doleful

Even the bits of conversation she caught on the street were doleful: "The doctor says she has only forty-eight hours to live. She hasn't a cent in the world, my dear, and those three children on her hands!"

The girl says, however, that she clung to her good resolution as best she could;, whenever she saw an unpleasant thing she immediately looked about for some bit of beauty; when she heard something depressing she strained her ears to catch a laugh or a cheerful word in order to counteract the impression. But the worst part of it for her was that she herself was constantly saying sharp, critical, unkind things before she thought.

The Quest of a Princess

There is a story in the "Arabian Nights" of the princess who set forth to find her lost brothers and secure the Talking Bird, leaves from the Singing Tree and a flask of the waters of the Golden Fountain. These three treasures were guaranteed to transform her life and bestow all sorts of good fortune on herself and those she loved.

Her brothers had already tried to gain them, but had never returned from the quest. Nevertheless, she determined to succeed where they and so many others had failed. So she used her brains before she set out on her journey, which fact showed her to be a very wise young woman indeed. She first endeavored to learn all she could about the hindrances in her path. These, she learned, were goblins that would try to frighten her until she ran to safety, and voices that would seek to allure her and cause her to linger too long upon the road. But being a young person of resource as well as courage, she stuffed her ears with cotton to shut out the beguiling voices, and refused even to look at the menacing shapes that barred her way.

The result was that she found the Talking Bird, and he told her how to secure the Singing Leaves and the flask of Golden Water, and by the aid of these she lifted the enchantment from her brothers and from the other travelers who had adventured in quest of the treasures without taking her forethought.

The negatives of life are the things not to see, not to hear and never, never to speak.

SEA LIONS HUNTED U-BOATS

The British Navy has just revealed one of the most surprising secrets of the war on German submarines—how they trained California sea lions to hunt U-boats! A fascinating story, in the next

This Little Pig Went to Market
Woman With a Shawl
Man Depression

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

A woman with a shawl over her head entered the Victory Loan headquarters in Chicago. She did not speak English well.

"If my son was here he could speak for me good," she said. It turned out that her son had been killed in the war and she had received two thousand dollars' life insurance and wanted to invest that money—all of it—in Victory Bonds.

That short story ought to convince certain gentlemen that they could manage to buy a few more bonds if they really tried.

"Don't dishonor the United States," Secretary Glass says, in urging the bond slackers to do their duty; he means, of course, don't dishonor "yourselves." No slacker can dishonor this country, but CAN simply prove that he isn't fit to live in it.

Fortunately the United States can TAKE as well as ask the prosperous gentleman who is not satisfied with four and three-quarters per cent. interest and his money back within five years, to bear in mind the fact that what the government doesn't get in a bond issue it will get through an income tax, and that money will not bear interest nor will it be returned.

When this Victory Loan is out of the way, business and politics will boom. One organization of patriots is already working for General Wood; another for General Pershing. Citizens looking at these two candidates might recite, "This little pig went to market, this little pig stayed home; this little pig had glory; this little pig had none."

The striking fact is that out of a hundred millions of Americans there are so few that have even a faint excuse for asking for the nomination it would seem to indicate that the majority of able Americans are working for themselves rather than for the public.

In Australia, to a man who returns from the war, having done his duty, they give $3,600 and land to start him in business. We all rejoice at having got rid of England as a ruler here. But there seems to be certain advantages in living at a distance under English domination. Sixty dollars that OUR soldiers get from a grateful government, the richest in the world, is a sum that does not seem big compared with $3,600. Australia has no very rich men, none very poor, no Bolshevists. It's a queer soil.

Chicago is always discussing something, being intelligent. At this moment it is the rights and wrongs of women. Mrs. Martha Biegler invents a sentence that will last among alliterative complaints. Says she: "Women are the slaves of man's suppression, oppression and depression."

They are especially the slaves of man's "depression." The most numerous bore in the world is the man who takes his troubles home, and spreads them out carefully before his wife.

Here's public ownership news from another standpoint.

At Lake Forest, the most prosperous citizens of Chicago have their Summer homes. The water has been bad there, as elsewhere. At Lake Forest they are doing something about it, and that something is this: They are going to have public ownership of the water plant and will stand no more nonsense.

This is highly interesting, for in that same Lake Forest you could find a hundred eminently prosperous gentleman ready to prove to you that public ownership of anything is a great mistake (outside of Lake Forest). Public ownership, they would tell you, is extravagant. It costs too much. It is wrong.

But in this particular case THEY used the water, and they have decided that the public will own it, and see that it is clean, and damn the expense.

If the same gentlemen travelled in the street cars instead of automobiles they might see virtue in public ownership of the street cars as an alternative to strap hanging.

What do you call "HAPPINESS"? Is it going to the White House to be worried by office seekers, abused by newspapers and forgotten by history? Or is it leading a long, peaceful life? A magazine shows you a picture of Edward James Monroe, youngest son of James Monroe, fifth President of the United States.

James Monroe, born in 1815, aged 104, is photographed in front of his little boat house at Jacksonville, Florida. He lives simply, does odd jobs for neighbors, sits in a comfortable rocking chair, talks old-fashioned philosophy. Does anybody doubt that he has had more happiness in his one hundred and four years of respectable poverty than his father had as President of the United States?
